PREFACE.

IN the rude State of human Government, while perſonal Strength and Courage were chiefly held in Eſteem, as Qualities moſt conducive to Honour and Security, Men yielded with Reluctance to the Obligation of Civil Inſtitutions, which were calculated to abridge and reſtrain their natural Rights and Prerogatives.

During this early Dawn of Legiſlation, the unpoliſhed Genius of the People, is viſible even in the Conſtruction of their Laws, which are, moſt of them, haſtily drawn up without Order and without Preciſion.

The antient Statutes of this Kingdom, afford abundant Examples of ſuch Irregularity and Inaccuracy; being, moſt of them, formed without any ſettled Precedent; and ſeeming, in particular Inſtances, rather to be Proviſions extorted by ſome predominant Influence, than Laws inſtituted by the concurring Aſſent of a regular Legiſlature.

Some Degree of Order, however, beamed forth under the Reign of Edward I, many Laws of that Time being penned with a Brevity and Perſpicuity, which might do Honour to more enlightened Days. But ſtill the greater Part of the Statutes even of that Reign, and of thoſe immediately ſucceeding, are not only vague and unſettled in Point of Form, but are ſometimes defective in Subſtance. In many, there are no Words expreſſing by what Authority they were promulgated; and in thoſe wherein the enacting Authority is declared, it is variouſly deſcribed. In ſome Inſtances, the Laws ſeem to iſſue from the King alone; ſeveral Acts running in the Form of Charters and Patents. In others, they ſeem to proceed from the King and Lords jointly, without the concurring Aſſent of the Commons.

It is obſervable likewiſe, that Offences are ſometimes looſely and ambiguouſly deſcribed; and, in many Statutes, no certain Penalty is inflicted on the Offender*; whereby the Courts of Juſtice were not only entruſted with a Latitude of Conſtruction reſpecting the Offence, but with a dangerous diſcretionary Power of puniſhing the Delinquent; which afforded room for Partiality and Oppreſſion.

The Laws of thoſe Times were likewiſe extremely defective with regard to civil Proceedings, whereby, in many Inſtances, the Courts of Judicature were left open to Temptations, and expoſed to Menaces: And, even in the Decline of the feudal Policy, they were eaſily corrupted or overawed by the Influence of the Crown, or of ſome potent Baron †.

* Many of the penal Statutes only enact that the Offender ſhall be puniſhed at the King's Pleaſure; ſome, that he ſhall make grievous Ranſom to the King: And others are merely prohibitory, or admonitory.

† See Maddox's Hiſt. of Exchequer.

The

The Inconveniencies ariſing from ſuch an imperfect Syſtem, wherein Power too often took place of Right, muſt, in thoſe Days, have been frequently and fatally experienced, more eſpecially by the Commoners, or inferior Orders, of the State. Their Experience of theſe Inconveniencies, taught them to prize the ſuperior Advantages of civil Inſtitutions; and as they, by Degrees, were enabled to aſſert their Independance, and to obtain that Share in the Adminiſtration of Government, to which they are by Nature intitled, we find that the Legiſlature applied their Attention to the framing of Laws with greater Preciſion and Uniformity, in order more effectually to aſcertain the Bounds of Juſtice, and compel lawleſs Force to ſubmit to the Civil Tribunal.

As Induſtry, however, could make but ſlow Advances againſt the overbearing Weight of lordly Power, the Commons were not, for a long Time, in a Condition to procure the expreſs Acknowledgment, much leſs to maintain the regular Exerciſe, of their undoubted Rights: And the frequent Struggles among the ſeveral Orders of the Conſtitution were, in Part perhaps, the Occaſion of the vague and unſettled Frame of our Statute Law, which, as different Intereſts predominated, underwent ſucceſſive Alterations, both in Form and Subſtance.

Theſe Inſtances of Diſorder and Irregularity, among other Circumſtances, have given riſe to various Objections againſt the Validity of ſeveral early Acts, printed in former Collections, and continued in this. Should theſe Objections ever prevail, many antient Statutes muſt be rejected as utterly invalid; and, to eſtabliſh their Authority, is perhaps one of the principal Ends to which an Editor ſhould direct his Attention. I ſhall therefore endeavour, in the firſt Place, to obviate theſe Objections; which will lead me briefly to explain the Method in which our antient Acts of Parliament were paſſed *. I ſhall then offer ſome Obſervations on our Statute Law in general: And laſtly, ſhall preſent the Reader with the Plan of the preſent Edition.

It is affirmed in ſeveral Books †, that, if a Record mention only that the King enacts, and the Lords aſſent, without naming the Commons, that the Omiſſion cannot be ſupplied by any Intendment: And upon this Principle, the 8 Hen. VI. c. 29. hath, as Serjeant Hawkins obſerves, been queſtioned by Dyer ‡, and its Authority denied in 1 Inſt. ‖ and the 8th Report ⸸. Were this Principle, however, which, as applied to the early Statutes, ſeems ill grounded, to be admitted for the preſent, yet its Force would not invalidate the Authority of the Act in Queſtion.

It is obſervable, that, in the old Statutes, there was, for the moſt Part, a general Preface, or, as ſome call it, Prologue, to the ſeveral Articles or Chapters enacted

* It ſeems to be an indiſpenſable Duty of an Editor, to give ſome Account of the Forms in which our antient Acts were paſſed; ſince, without this previous Knowledge, many of them will be very imperfectly underſtood; ſuch as Articuli Cleri, and others, which do not bear the Form of Statutes. In order however to explain the antient Method of paſſing Bills, we muſt neceſſarily take ſome Notice concerning the reſpective Influence of the ſeveral Orders of the State at different Times: An Inquiry which has been greatly obſcured by the partial and intereſted Zeal of the Writers of the laſt Century, who, by attempting to prove too much, have, on both Sides, fallen equally ſhort of Conviction. The Editor therefore has been cautious of advancing any thing on this Subject, not warranted by the Evidence of the antient Records.

in each Seſſion, which were entered ſeriatim on the Roll, without a ſingle Break, or even any intervening Punctuation: And they all had Reference to the Preface, which declared the enacting Authority. Thus the Act in Queſtion, of the 8 Hen. VI. begins with the following Preface.

" To the Laud and Honour of Almighty God, &c. our moſt noble Chriſtian " Lord Henry, &c. by the Advice and Aſſent of the Prelates and great Men of his " Realm of England, and at the ſpecial Requeſt and ASSENT of the COMMONS " of the ſaid Realm being in the ſaid Parliament, hath made certain STATUTES, " &c. in the Form following."

Here we find that, in this Preface, the Aſſent of the Commons is expreſsly mentioned: And therefore the Omiſſion in the 29th Chapter, is to be ſupplied by Reference, and there is no Need of any Intendment *.

But admitting that their Aſſent could not be ſupplied by ſuch Reference, yet, if ſuch an Omiſſion ſhould be deemed ſufficient to invalidate a Statute, then the Authority of the greater Part of the early Acts may be denied: For the Aſſent of the Commons is frequently omitted, more eſpecially in the enacting Clauſes of the Statutes prior to the Reign of Henry VII. nay, ſometimes is not even inſerted in the Preface †.

Lord Coke however takes a Diſtinction between a general and a particular penning of an Act of Parliament. Thus he allows an Act to be good which runs in theſe general Terms: " It is enacted by Authority of Parliament." Or, he likewiſe admits, that if it be indited " quod Dominus Rex ſtatuit," yet if it be entered in the Parliament-Roll, and always allowed to be an Act, it ſhall be intended to have been by Authority of Parliament. But, he concludes, " If it be " penned, that the King enacts with the Aſſent of the Lords, or with the Aſſent " of the Commons, it is not an Act of Parliament, for the Record of the Act " expreſſing which of them gave their Aſſent, excludeth all Intendments that " any other gave their Aſſent. ‡"

This Diſtinction however, with due Deference to ſuch great Authority, does not ſeem to eſtabliſh any ſolid Difference. For, the Legiſlature conſiſting of three Orders, where one alone, the King for Inſtance, is expreſſed, there is the ſame Ground for excluding all Intendment with regard to the other two, as there is for the Excluſion of one, where two only are mentioned: And no valid Reaſon can be given, why the Aſſent of one Order, ſhould not be intended as well as the Aſſent of two. Beſides, the univerſal Reception in Courts of Juſtice, ſeems to be againſt his Lordſhip's Poſition: For the Statute de Malefactoribus in Parcis, where it is ſaid, that " the King hath commanded, at the Inſtance of his Nobles," hath always been

* What farther proves the Authority of the Act in Queſtion, is its having been referred to, and in Part recited, as a Statute in Force, by the Legiſlature itſelf; for in the 22 H. 8. c. 10. deſcribing certain Offences, it is thus expreſsly declared, " That in the Inqueſt that ſhall paſs between the King and any ſuch Party ſhall " be altogether of Engliſhmen," albeit that the Party ſo indicted pray Medietatem Linguæ, according to the STATUTE of Anno 8 Henrici 6. or any other Statute thereof made.

† Throughout the Reign of Ed. 1. the Aſſent of the Commons is not once expreſſed in any of the enacting Clauſes; nor in the Reigns enſuing, till the 9th of Ed. 3. nor in any of the enacting Clauſes of 16 R. 2. Nay even ſo low as H. 6. from the Beginning till the 8th Year of his Reign, the Aſſent of the Commons is not once expreſſed in any enacting Clauſe.

deemed a Statute. Other Statutes likewiſe, mentioned by Serjeant Hawkins, ſuch as Quia emptores terrarum, which is worded as "an Ordinance at the Inſtance of "the great Men;" Articuli ſuper chartas, which only mentions the Prelates, Earls, and Barons; and the Statute of Money, which runs in the ſame Form, have been univerſally received as Acts of the whole Legiſlature, though particularly penned, and omitting the Commons.

But the Doctrine laid down by Lord Coke and others, will appear the more indefenſible, if we take a retroſpective View of the antient Method of paſſing Acts of Parliament, wherein we ſhall find, that the concurring Aſſent of the ſeveral Orders of the State was not for ſome time held eſſentially requiſite; and that after the Commons were reſtored, as a Part of the Legiſlature, their Influence was ſo inconſiderable, that it was many Years before their Right of Aſſent in particular was fully acknowledged and eſtabliſhed in Practice.

Concerning the antient Method of paſſing Laws, during the Britiſh and Saxon Times, we can conclude little with Certainty. The Britiſh Kifrithin, or Great Council, ſeems to have been rather an occaſional and tumultuary Meeting, than an Aſſembly compoſed of regular and diſtinct Orders *. With regard however to the Saxon Conſtitution, though we cannot trace the Forms on which the ſeveral Orders of the State concurred in the Buſineſs of Legiſlation, yet we frequently find expreſs Mention of the People in the Saxon Laws †: And it may, among other Circumſtances, be collected even from the Nature and Deſign of the Folcmote ‡, that they bore

* Many have undertaken to prove that the Commons were conſtituent Members of the Britiſh Great Council. Of this Opinion is Lord Coke, Pref. to 9th Rep.

Petyt likewiſe adopts the ſame Notion on the Authority of Dion Caſſius, who aſſures us, in the Life of Severus, that apud Britannos POPULUS magna ex parte Principatum tenet. But the Word Populus here, according to Brady, can only mean the great Men or Leaders; ſince Tacitus in the Life of Agricola, long before the Time of Severus, informs us that Britanni olim REGIBUS parebant, nunc per PRINCIPES factionibus & Studiis trahuntur.—Brady however ſeems to have miſtaken the Senſe of this Paſſage, which he tranſlates, or rather amplifies thus. "In Times paſt, the Britains obeyed their Kings, and lived under Mo- "narchy; now they are drawn into Factions and Parties by their Chiefs and great Men." From the Words in Italicks, which are not to be found in the Original, may be inferred, what Brady indeed ſuppoſes, that the Britains no longer lived under Monarchy, but had degenerated into a Populacy, or, as he expreſſes it, a Compound of Ariſtocracy and Democracy. Whereas the Fact is, that the Britains, at that Time, lived under their Kings; and the Hiſtorian, within a few Pages of the Paſſage cited, ſpeaks of King Cogidunus and Queen Voadicea. Brady, with ſome others, ſeems to have been betrayed into this Miſconſtruction, by taking the Words Regibus and Principes as oppoſed to each other: Whereas the Oppoſition is between the Words Parebant and Factionibus trahuntur. See the Annotator on the Amſterdam Edition of Tacitus.—It is obſervable that the learned Spelman has fallen into the ſame Error: For, after quoting the above Paſſage from Tacitus, he ſays, "Vides in hiſce Conſiliis nec Regis adeſſe Preſentiam nec Authoritatem." An Inference by no Means deducible from the Words of the Hiſtorian. See Spelm. Gloſſ. Voce Parliamentum.—Some, who have treated of this Subject, tell us that the Members of the Britiſh Councils were their Edlins, who were of princely Race: Together with the Governors of Diſtricts and Lords of Villages. But this Inquiry is involved in ſuch Obſcurity, that perhaps it is not ſafe to form any poſitive Concluſion.

† They are expreſsly named in the Wittanagemot held by Ethelwolf in the Year 855, when a Tenth was given to the Church by the King, cum Thanis, Baronibus, & POPULO. They are again expreſsly named in the 8th Law of Edward the Confeſſor. And in the 35th Law, we find the Aſſent of the People expreſſed as follows. Hoc enim factum fuit per Commune Conſilium & ASSENSUM omnium Epiſcoporum, Principum, Procerum, Comitum, & omnium Sapientum, Seniorum, & POPULORUM totius Regni.

‡ The Folcmote was of two Kinds; the Folcmote Comitatus, or Shiremote, and the Folcmote Civitatis vel Burgi, that is the Burgmote. The former was an yearly Aſſembly of the People of all Ranks, in the Nature of an annual Parliament, and the Laity there took the Oath of Fealty, before the Biſhops: At theſe bore no inconſiderable Share in the Adminiſtration of Government; as many have, with good Reaſon, contended †.

We may nevertheleſs venture to conclude, that the Authority of the Commons, however conſtitutionally extenſive in Point of Right ‡, ſoon became very inconſiderable in Effect. We may indeed judge of the Weakneſs of their Influence, by attending to the unequal Balance of Property among the Saxons; which is, perhaps, one of the ſureſt Rules to determine the reſpective Powers of the different Orders of the Conſtitution ‖. And indeed it appears to have been ſo ſmall, that it is no wonder theſe yearly Meetings likewiſe, they conſulted for the common Safety, about Peace and War, and to promote the Public Good. Beſides theſe annual Meetings, if any ſudden Contingency happened, it was the Duty of the Aldermen of Cities and Boroughs to ring the Bell called in Engliſh Methel, in order to bring the People together to the Burgmote, that, by their Common Council, they might provide for the Security of the Crown, and take Meaſures to ſuppreſs the Inſolence of Malefactors. See the 35th Law of Edward the Confeſſor.—It is probable that the Reſolutions taken at theſe annual Meetings were diſcuſſed and finally concluded at the Courts de More, which, according to the Inſtitution of Alfred, met at the three great Feſtivals of Eaſter, Whitſuntide, and Chriſtmas. Theſe Courts de More were ſometimes called the Ealra Wittanagemot, or Meeting of all the Wiſemen. As to the Wittanagemot, though it was compoſed of the ſame Orders in reſpect of Rank as the Ealra Wittanagemot, yet it appears to have been only an occaſional Aſſembly of ſome choſen Members, ſummoned when any Emergency happened in the Intervals of the three great Feſtivals.—Sir Hen. Spelman, Voce Gemote, ſaith, " that the Wittanagemote differed little from the Folcmote, except that the latter was annual, and for the moſt Part ſummoned on certain Occaſions; whereas the former was called at the Will of the Prince, upon arduous Contingencies, and for the Sake of making Laws." But a great Part of this Diſtinction vaniſhes, ſince we find from the Law above-mentioned, that the Folcmote alſo was ſummoned on arduous Contingencies. Indeed Sir Henry does not ſeem to have treated this Subject with his uſual Accuracy and Perſpicuity: For after having obſerved, that at the annual Folcmotes, the People conſulted about the Publick Safety, about Peace and War, &c. he adds—" Adhibetur præterea Folcmotum in repentino omni Diſcrimine: Exigente etiam neceſſitate ſub Aldermanno (hoc eſt, Comite) cujuſlibet Comitatus." Here we find that he erroneouſly makes the Folcmote on extraordinary Occaſions, to be ſub Aldermanno COMITATUS; whereas it appears from the Law above cited, that is was ſub Aldermannis in CIVITATIBUS & BURGIS. But to enter into theſe Minutiæ of the Saxon Conſtitution, would require a Volume by itſelf.

† Elſyng, Petyt, Hackwell, Sadler, Harrington, Dugdale, Lambard, Lord Coke, and others. Lambard, Lord Coke, and many others, rely on the Authority of the old MSS. Modus tenendi Parliamentum, which is rejected as ſpurious by Selden and Prynne. ☞ There are ſeveral Copies of this MSS. Modus, among the Cottonian Manuſcripts in the Britiſh Muſæum, which materially differ from each other: And though there is good Ground to ſuppoſe that it is not ſo antient as its Title imports, yet ſuppoſing it to have been made even ſo late as the Time of Edw. 3, as Selden conjectures, yet it may ſerve to expreſs the ſenſe of thoſe Times with reſpect to the Rights of the Commons, to which they were willing to add the Sanction of Antiquity.

‡ Dugdale and Lambard conclude very ſtrongly, that the Commons were repreſented among the Saxons; and the latter produceth a very cogent Reaſon in ſupport of this Opinion. For, ſaith he, many antient and long ſince decayed Burroughs do ſend Burgeſſes to Parliament, though it cannot be ſhewn that thoſe Burroughs have been of any Reputation ſince the Conqueſt, much leſs that they have obtained the Privilege by the Grant of any ſucceeding King: So, on the contrary, they of antient Demeſne do preſcribe in not ſending Burgeſſes to the Parliament; which Preſcription proves that there were ſome Burroughs before the Conqueſt, which did ſend Burgeſſes. See Dugd. Orig. Jurid. and Lambard's Archæon, or Diſcourſe on the High Courts of Juſtice. The Reader will find the ſame Arguments in Lord Coke's Preface to his 9th Report.—Upon the whole, there ſeems to be the ſtrongeſt Reaſon for concluding that the People had a Share in the Adminiſtration of the Saxon Government, though it is not eaſy to aſcertain the Forms in which they exerciſed their Rights. It is not improbable that their Folcmote anſwered, in ſome Reſpects, to our Houſe of Commons: That their Ealra Wittanagemot bore Reſemblance to the Houſe of Lords: And that their Wittanagemot was ſomewhat in the Nature of our Privy Council. But after all perhaps, it is more diſcreet to confeſs our Ignorance in theſe Points, than to form uncertain Concluſions, or hazard vain Conjectures.

‖ Under the Saxon Monarchy, the Poſſeſſions of the great Thanes were ſo immenſe, that they were not only called Reguli, or petty Kings, but in Effect they exerciſed a Kind of regal Authority within their

der we find the Trace of it for ſome Time effaced by the Revolution effected under William the Norman.

While the feodal Syſtem which he introduced, or rather, perhaps, extended *, was preſerved in its full Vigour, we find no expreſs Mention of the Commons. But the great Oppoſition the ſucceeding Kings met with from the enormous Power of the Barons, and the Struggles between regal and ariſtocratical Tyranny, occaſioned the Decline of that Syſtem; and, with other concurring Circumſtances †, gradually made Way for the Reſtoration of the Commons into the Great Council. As the greater Baronies eſcheated, they were, in order to leſſen the Influence of the Nobility, portioned out into leſſer Tenures, in Capite †; and theſe Tenants were called the Leſſer Barons; who had a Right of attending the Parliament. Their Number, according to Gilbert, was at one Time three thouſand: Their Attendance conſequently beoming inconvenient, if not impoſſible, two Knights were at length ſummoned from each County, in the Room of theſe Leſſer Barons.

The firſt Summons of theſe Knights, extant on Record, is the 49th of Henry III. ‡ And it doth not appear that the Citizens and Burgeſſes, who were, at that time, the true Commons of the Realm, were regularly ſummoned at this Time. All we find is, that the Cities of York and Lincoln, and other Boroughs of England, were written to and required to ſend two of the moſt diſcreet Men, &c.

The firſt regular Summons we meet with, directed to the Sheriff, for the Election of Citizens and Burgeſſes, is in the 23d of Edward I. ‖. The Commons had by this ſeveral Juriſdictions. The Saxon Policy likewiſe contributed to increaſe and confirm the ariſtocratical Power. For, if a Clown obtained a certain Portion of Land, that is, five Hides, he became a Thane; if a Merchant croſſed the Sea thrice on his own Account, he roſe to the ſame Honour. And if a Thane improved his Eſtate to the Amount of an Earldom, then he became an Earl. Though Inſtances of ſuch Advancement might not probably be very frequent, yet, it is eaſy to conceive, that, under a Government, where a certain Portion of Property alone, ſtamped the Rank of Nobility on the Poſſeſſor, the Influence of the Burgeſſes or Commons muſt be extremely low. The ſame Law, which gave Encouragement to Trade, proved injurious to Liberty, by its Tendency to increaſe the Power of the Ariſtocracy.

* See Wright's Tenures, where the Authorities concerning Introduction of feodal Tenures are candidly and accurately ſtated.

† The Frauds and Impoſitions in collecting the Scutages and other feodal Revenues, was perhaps among the Cauſes of reſtoring the Commons, in order to procure their Aſſent to ſuch Taxes as were propoſed to be levied on them.

† This Policy is generally attributed to King Stephen.

‡ It is well obſerved by Brady, that it does not appear by the Writ, whether the Sheriffs, or the Counties, were to elect theſe Knights. The Mandate to the Sheriffs being only Quod venire faciant. It is obſervable likewiſe, that theſe Knights ſeem, for ſome Time, to have been conſidered as a diſtinct Order from the Commons; as may be inferred from the 10 Ed. 3. where it is ſaid, "The King hath perceived, "at the Complaint of the Prelates, Earls, Barons, and alſo at the ſhewing of the Knights of the Shires, "and his Commons, &c." Likewiſe in 6 Ed. 3. n. 6. the Prelates, Earls, Barons and Great Men by themſelves, & les Chivalers des Countez & GENTZ DU COMMUNE par Eux Meſmes, &c. ☞ It may not be improper, however, to obſerve of Brady, that though he diſcovers great Learning and Acuteneſs, yet he evidently wrote with the illiberal View of ſerving a Party, rather than of inveſtigating Truth. As an Author, therefore, he ought to be read with Caution: And as a Man, capable of proſtituting his Talents to explain away the Rights of the People, he ought to be remembered with Concern.

‖ This, however, was more properly the Revival, than the Commencement of their Right. Indeed there are the ſtrongeſt preſumptive Proofs, that the Commons were a Part of the Parliament ſoon after the Conqueſt; this Time obtained ſome Share of Influence: But ſuch was the little Regard paid to their Rights, that their Aſſent † was not, for a long Time after, held eſſential to the enacting of Laws.

Even the Barons themſelves were, for ſome Time, conſidered merely as Counſellors, and, aſpiring alſo to the Honours of the Chace, with the romantic Glory of Chivalry, they were glad to be relieved from the ſpeculative Buſineſs of Legiſlation, which they willingly committed to the King and his Judges ‡.

But as greater Refinement took Place, they not only aſſerted their Right of Aſſent to Acts of Legiſlation, but, while their Influence was predominant, they, in fact, bid open Defiance to the Crown.

The Commons ſeem at firſt, among other Reaſons, to have been oppoſed as a Counterbalance to their exorbitant Power: And they naturally adhered to the Sovereign, from Averſion to the Barons, who were no leſs their Oppreſſors, than Opponents to the Crown ‖.

Conqueſt; or at leaſt very early in the Reign of Hen. 3. For the 25th of Ed. 1. which confirms Magna Charta, ſays, that it was made by the common Aſſent of all the Realm. And the 15th of Ed. 3. ſpeaks more ſtrongly, that Magna Charta was made par le Roi, ſes Piers, & la Communalte de la Terre: And the Judgment of thoſe early Times is more to be regarded than the partial Conſtruction of modern Interpreters. Moreover, though the Summons of the 49 H. 3. is the firſt on Record, which comes near to the Form ſo long in Uſe, yet there are Inſtruments on Record long before this Time, from whence it may be inferred that the Commons were called to the Great Council, as appears from WHITLOCKE's Notes on the King's Writ for chuſing of Members of Parliament; a MSS. the Property of Dr. Moreton, who favoured the Editor with the Peruſal of it. ☞ Brady, however, with his uſual Subtlety, would perſuade us, that the Word Communalty antiently meant the Barons only, and Tenants in Capite, or military Men: But though he has cited ſome Inſtances where the Word may be ſo underſtood, yet, in the 14 Ed. 3. Stat. 2. the Words Communalty and Commons are expreſsly uſed as ſynonymous Terms: And there are ſuch innumerable Inſtances in the antient Records where the Words Communitas and Communaute are deſcriptive of the Commons only, that no unprejudiced Writer could overlook or ſuppreſs them. But Brady, who reſts his Arguments on mere verbal Niceties, would farther perſuade us that the Words Proceres, Nobiles, Optimates, Magnates, &c. conſtantly denote the Barons or Noblemen; whereas, however they may be ſo taken in a claſſical Senſe, yet, in the antient Records, they are often applied to diſtinguiſh the chief of the Commoners, that is, the repreſentative Body; as in the Stat. de Aſportatis Religioſorum, 35 Ed. 1.—poſt deliberationem, &c. cum COMITIBUS, BARONIBUS, PROCERIBUS et aliis NOBILIBUS, ac COMMUNITATIBUS Regni, where the Words Proceribus, Nobilibus, ac Communitatibus, muſt be deſcriptive of the Knights, Citizens, and Burgeſſes. And of this Opinion is Lord Coke, 2 Inſt. 583. Nay, it would not be difficult to produce many Records, where the Word Barones, notwithſtanding Brady ridicules the Notion, was antiently applied to denote the Commons, and particularly the Burgeſſes. Whitlocke's MSS. above cited.

† That their Aſſent was a Matter of Right, however it might be over-ruled by the arbitrary Practices of early Times, may be inferred from the Words of the Writ of Summons, which are ad audiendum & faciendum & CONSENTIENDUM. It is obſervable that the Summons to the Biſhops and Barons was de arduis Negotiis Regni tractaturi & Conſilium impenſuri. Yet there are many Inſtances on Record which prove that the Commons alſo were conſulted about important Affairs of State, ſuch as Peace and War, &c. For which ſee Cotton. Poſthum.

‡ We find in the Statute Code, ſome Traces of this Prerogative exerciſed by the King. The Statute of Gavelet, 10 Ed. 2. for Inſtance, runs thus: "It is provided by our Lord the King and his Juſtices, &c." without any Mention either of Lords or Commons. That Laws in theſe early Times were made by the ſole Authority of the King, without the Concurrence of any other legiſlative Branch, is farther evident from the Mirroir des Juſtices, the Author of which complains, "that Ordinances are only made by the King "and his Clerks, and by Aliens and others, who dare not contradict the King, but ſtudy to pleaſe him. "Whence," he concludes, "Laws are oftener dictated by Will, than founded on Right."

‖ If we conſider the Influence the King had in Demeſne Towns, he might as well have been abſolute with a Parliament as without; and the Parliament at firſt, ſo far as it conſiſted of Commoners, was intended as a Support to Prerogative.

The Commons were for a long Time, nevertheleſs, ſo far from being conſidered as eſſential Branches of the Legiſlature, that even after they were unqueſtionably reſtored to Parliament, yet we find that they were not conſtantly and regularly ſummoned as a diſtinct Order; the Sheriffs omitting them at Pleaſure *; and the King ſome times, in the Writ of Summons, expreſsly naming the Repreſentatives which the Sheriffs were to return †.

Their Attendance was, for a long Time, deemed a Burthen both to Repreſentatives and Conſtituents; ‡ and though after Election the Members gave Security for their Attendance, yet it is common to find the Parliament adjourned, becauſe many of the Commons were not come, nor the Writs returned ‖.

In moſt of the antient Statutes, they are not ſo much as named: And in ſeveral, even where they are mentioned, they are diſtinguiſhed as Petitioners merely, the Aſſent of the Lords, being expreſſed in Contradiſtinction to the Requeſt § of the Commons.

One of the principal Cauſes, however, of their being ſummoned, which was to procure their Conſent to the levying of Taxes, naturally contributed to extend and enlarge their Influence; for, after they had granted Supplies to the King, in which they were ſometimes emulouſly and oſtentatiouſly liberal, they reaſonably expected ſome Return for their Liberality. Accordingly, after having provided for the King's Neceſſities, they took Occaſion to preſent Petitions for the Redreſs of Grievances; from which Petitions, moſt of our early Statutes are framed ⸸. This Method of framing the Acts, ſeems to have taken riſe from near the Beginning of the Reign of Ed. III. For, till then, the Acts were drawn up in the Form of a Law, in the firſt Inſtance; but, from that Time, the Petition, with the King's Anſwer, was entered on the Parliament Rolls, and from them, by Advice of the Judges, and others of the King's Council, the Act was framed, and for the moſt part entered in a Roll called the Statute Roll, and the Tenor thereof affixed to Proclamation Writs, directed to the ſeveral Sheriffs to proclaim it as a Law in their reſpective Counties *.

Many Acts, however, though undoubtedly valid, were not entered on the Statute Roll: For if the Bill did not demand Novel Ley, that is, if the Proviſion required would ſtand with the Laws in Force, and did not tend to change or alter any Statute then in being, in ſuch Caſe the Law was compleat by the Royal Aſſent on the Parliament Roll, without any Entry on the Statute Roll: And ſuch Bills were uſually termed Ordinances, being ſuch as might at any Time be amended by the Parliament without any Statute; whereas one Statute could not be altered but by another: And this Diſtinction is clearly expreſſed in the Rolls hereunder cited †.

When the Commons had obtained Anſwers to their Petitions ‡, ſuch as were granted were framed into Acts, and frequently paſſed, without their Concurrence or Inſpection ‖. And their Aſſent, though an undoubted Right, was ſo far from being indiſputably eſtabliſhed in Practice, that we find it diſputed in the moſt eſſential Points, and arbitrarily over-ruled during the Reigns of Edward III. and Richard II. §.

† Rot. Parl. 37 E. 3. nu. 38. "As the Things granted in this Parliament were new, and not known "before then, the King aſked the Commons if they would have the Things ſo granted, by way of Or-"dinance or Statute?" And they anſwered, that, "It was good to have them by way of Ordinance, "and not by Statute, to the end that if any Thing required Amendment, it might be amended at the "next Parliament (1)." It may be collected from this Record, that, though the Law demanded was new, yet if it was ſuch as might ſtand with the old Laws, and did not alter any Statute then in force, it might paſs indifferently by way of Ordinance or Statute; whereas if it changed any old Law, it muſt have been by Statute: As is farther evident from the following Record. Rot. Parl. 22 E. 3. nu. 30. "The "King, by the Aſſent of the Lords, made Anſwer that Laws and Proceſs heretofore uſed could not be "changed, without making new Statutes." But after all, it muſt be confeſſed that whatever the Right was, yet ſo irregular was the Practice, that a great Number of printed Acts, as Prynne obſerves, refute this Diſtinction. In ſhort, Acts are, by the Legiſlature, frequently called Ordinances; and Ordinances again are as frequently ſtiled Acts of Parliament or Statutes: And ſometimes the Words Act and Ordinance are coupled together. Therefore perhaps the only Difference, if any, between them is, that Bills entered with the Royal Aſſent on the Parliament Roll, were called Ordinances, and when entered on the Statute Roll, were ſtiled Statutes. In ſhort, however they may be verbally diſtinguiſhed, their Operation was the ſame.

‡ Their Petitions were ſometimes ſlightly regarded, being frequently referred to the Conſideration of the Council out of Parliament, or perhaps totally thrown aſide. See Cotton's Abr. Tit. Petition, Councel, &c. paſſim.

‖ The antient Records furniſh us with many Inſtances of Complaints, made by the Commons on thoſe Heads. In the 21 Ed. 3. they pray, that Petitions which be for the Common Profit may be anſwered in Parliament before them, ſo as they may know the Indorſement, and have Remedy according to Ordinance of Parliament. See Rot. Parl. 21 E. 3. nu. 8.—In the 5th of Rich. 2. they pray that they might view the Ordinances before they were confirmed. See Rot. Parl. 5 R. 2. nu. 23.

§ In the 51 of Ed. 3. we find an Impoſition laid without the Conſent of the Commons; and the ſame King, in the laſt Year of his Reign, tacitly reſerves a Right of taxing them without their Conſent. For upon a Petition, praying, "That the Prelates, Earls, Barons, Commons, Citizens and Burgeſſes "of England, be not thenceforth charged, &c. but by common Aſſent, &c. the King anſwered, That "he is not at all willing to do it, without great Neceſſity, and for Defence of the Realm, and where HE "MAY DO IT with Reaſon." Rot. Parl. 51 E. 3. nu. 25.—In the firſt Year of Rich. 2. (1) Among the Ordinances on this Roll, is one for regulating Apparel: And it is obſervable that "the "Chancellor, by the King's Command, charged the Commons, at their Return into the Country, to "ſhew and publiſh the Ordinance of Apparel, to the end that every one might wear Apparel agreeable "thereto." This ſerves to explain in what Manner thoſe Acts which were not entered on the Statute Roll, nor conſequently proclaimed by the Sheriffs, were made known to the People.

Never-

Nevertheleſs the Commons, in the Reign of Rich. II. had gained a very conſiderable Aſcendancy; for, in the firſt Year of the ſucceeding King, they even attempted to ſhare with the Lords in their judicial Capacity: But the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, by the King's Command, told them, that "they were only Petitioners; and that all Judgments appertain to the King and to the Lords, UNLESS "it were in STATUTES, Grants, Subſidies, or ſuch like; the which Order the "King would have from that Time to be obſerved."

By this concluding Exception, we find the legiſlative Right of the Commons expreſsly acknowledged in Terms, yet it was ſtill ſo little regarded in Practice, that it was again invaded the very next Year: And the 2d of Hen. IV. c. 15. was paſſed, though the Commons never aſſented to it, but, on the contrary, diſavowed it †. The Force of that Act, nevertheleſs, was felt till the Reigns of Hen. VIII. and Ed. VI. Nay, afterwards, in Mary's Time, till its final Repeal in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth. Inſtances of this Kind probably gave Birth to the Petition in the 8 of Hen. IV. when "it was enacted, at the Requeſt of the Com-"mons, that certain of the Commons Houſe ſhould be preſent at the engroſſing "of the Parliament Roll ‡."

But, notwithſtanding theſe Securities, Acts ſtill continued to be paſſed without the Commons Aſſent; and they were, from Time to Time, compelled to renew their Claim of Right in this Behalf, which they did in 2 Hen. V. in the following ſtrong Terms.

"Oure Soverain, your humble and trewe Leiges that ben come for the Comens "of your Lond, by ſeeckyn onto your rigt Wiſſeneſſe. only. Maddox M. S. No. 12. Tit. Parl.—As a Proof that Acts were often paſſed without their Concurrence or Aſſent, we find in 6 Rich. 2. an Act, made in the laſt Parliament, revoked, and the Cauſe aſſigned is, becauſe the ſaid Statute was never aſſented to, nor granted by the Commons. It is obſervable, nevertheleſs, that the Act of the 6th Rich. 2. was never printed, as Lord Coke aſſures us, and the Statute of the 5th, though paſſed without the Aſſent of the Commons, was, as it is ſaid, put in Execution, and continued in Force till it was repealed by 1 Ed. 6. c. 12. and 1 Eliz. c. 1. " evere it ſtonde yn the Fredom of your high Regalie, to graunte which of thoo " that you luſte, and to wernne * the Remanent."

To this the King gave the following Anſwer. " The Kyng, of his Grace " eſpecial, graunteth yat fro hensforth nothing be enacted to the Peticions of " his Commune, yat be contrarie of hir aſkyng, wharby they ſhuld be bounde " without thair Aſſent, ſavyng alwey to our Leige Lord his reall Prerogatif, to " graunte and denye what him luſt of their Peticions and aſkynges aforeſaid †."

Before this Petition, it was uſual, upon entering the Bill on the Statute Roll, to make Additions, Diminutions and Alterations ‡, whereby the Act was made to vary materially from the Subſtance of the Commons Petitions, and ſometimes framed directly contrary to their Senſe and Meaning. Several Inſtances of this Kind occur on the Rolls; but it will be ſufficient to mention one, which is extremely remarkable, viz. the 36 Ed. III. ſtat. 1. c. 15. providing that all Pleas ſhall be pleaded in the Engliſh Tongue, which is the Purport of the Petition on the Parliament Roll; but on the Statute Roll, we find theſe Words added—" And that they be entered and " inrolled in Latin," &c. which Words are not on the Parliament Roll ‖.

Nevertheleſs this Bill of the 2 Hen. V. did not wholly remove the Evil; for many Inconveniencies ſtill aroſe, from the Method of extracting and drawing up the Statute, from the Petition and Anſwer on the Parliament Roll. To remedy which, about the End of Hen. VI. and the Beginning of Ed. IV. the Practice was introduced, or rather revived, of reducing the Petitions, even in the firſt Inſtance, into the full and compleat Form of Acts of Parliament, which were commonly entered in this Form—Item Quædam Petitio exhibita fuit in hoc Parliamento Formam Actus in ſe continens §.

This Form prevailed many Years, but the Title at length was diſuſed, the Method, in other Reſpects, ſtill continuing the ſame as it is at preſent, the Bill being drawn up, in the firſt Inſtance, in the Form of an Act, and brought to the Sovereign for his Aſſent.

The Power of the Commons, however, in theſe and the ſucceeding Reigns, was daily increaſing; and the civil Wars between the Houſes of York and Lancaſter, contributed to extend their Influence. For Competitions of this Nature, however fatal to Individuals, never fail of adding Weight to the Body of the People †. In all

For farther Inſtances of this Kind, ſee Maddox's MSS. in the Britiſh Muſæum, entitled, Expeditionis Billarum Antiquitas, which contains a very circumſtantial Account of the antient Method of paſſing Bills: And, as the Editor is informed, will ſhortly be made public.

§ See Hale's Hiſt. of Common Law.

† The Editor is aware that the celebrated Sidney has declared himſelf of a different Opinion. Speaking of the Quarrels begun upon perſonal Titles, between Stephen and Maud; the Houſes of York and Lancaſter, &c. he ſays the People get nothing by the Victory which way ſoever it fall. But in this he ſeems to contradict all conteſted Titles, they are courted by each Party, and whoever prevails, is directed by Policy to have his Title recognized by them, and to ſecure the Continuance of their Favour and Support, by ſome Enlargement or Confirmation of their Privileges. Add to this, that the Power of the Nobility beginning to decline, they were glad to gain the Commons to their Party, which farther extended the Influence of the repreſentative Body.

During theſe Conteſts, however, when civil Rights were ſo far from being eſtabliſhed, that the primitive Rights of Juſtice and Humanity were daily violated, the Buſineſs of Legiſlation was variouſly and irregularly conducted, both in Form and Subſtance. And there ſeems to have been no ſettled Precedent for penning the enacting Clauſes *, till the 13th of Charles II. ſtat. 2. c. 2. when the Form now in Uſe firſt took Place.

Our Judgment, however, with regard to the antient Acts, ought to be guided by the Practice of thoſe Times; and it would, with Submiſſion, be very unreaſonable to deny the Validity of any of the antient Statutes, upon the Principle laid down in the Books; that is, becauſe the Aſſent of the Commons is not expreſſed; ſince it is evident, that their Aſſent, after it was allowed in Terms, was often over-ruled in Practice: That where we may ſafely preſume their Aſſent was given, it frequently was not expreſſed in the Act: And that there was not any ſettled Form of declaring the Concurrence of the ſeveral Eſtates of the Kingdom.

IT remains now, in farther Support of the early Statutes, to take Notice of ſome more extenſive Objections, which are not levelled againſt the Authority of any particular Act, but are calculated to overthrow the Statutes in general of ſeveral whole Reigns. Of this Nature are the Principles maintained by the anonymous Author of a Treatiſe, intitled, "The hereditary Right to the Crown "of England aſſerted," who hath boldly objected to all the Laws paſſed during the Reigns of thoſe Kings, whom he ſtiles Kings de facto, on pretence that they are violable: And as an Inſtance that they loſt their Force for want of Confirmation, he hath cited 10 Hen. VI. which Ed. IV. refuſed to confirm.

This ſtrange Reaſoning has been contraverted by Mr. Cay †; but as that Gentleman, in the Courſe of his Animadverſions, has advanced ſome Principles which are at contradict the concurring Teſtimony of Hiſtorians. Stephen, in order to ſecure his tottering Throne, granted a Charter, by which he endeavoured to conciliate the Favour of all Orders. To the Clergy, he undertook to ſupply all vacant Benefices--To the Nobility, that they ſhould not be proſecuted for hunting in the Foreſts--And to the People, that he would remit the Tax of Danegelt, and reſtore the Laws of King Edward. Henry 4. likewiſe was obliged to court Popularity; and the Commons, during his Reign, exerciſed very large, and till then, unuſual Powers: The Particulars of which may be ſeen in Cotton's Abridgement. And Prynne, in a Note upon the Abridgement, takes notice, that the Commons young Speaker [Sir John Tiptoft] took more upon him, at this Time, than ever Speaker did before him. It is true, when theſe Candidates for Royalty are well ſettled in their Thrones, they then apply themſelves to abridge and reſcind their Grants, and to lower that Power which has exalted their own: For to preſerve the Liberties of a Nation, is a ſpecies of Magnanimity, to which moſt Heroes are unhappily Strangers.

* This looſe Method of penning the enacting Clauſes prevailed even in the Reigns of Elizabeth, James, and Charles the Firſt. See 13 Eliz. c. 20. 18 Eliz. c. 11. 3 Jac. c. 16. 7 Jac. c. 6. 16 Car. 1. c. 10. with many others of the like Form.

† The Editor takes this Opportunity of obſerving, that, however he may ſee Occaſion to diſſent from Mr. Cay, yet he would be always underſtood to expreſs himſelf with the Regard ſo juſtly due to the Memory at leaſt contravertible, it may not be improper to re-conſider the Subject, and to endeavour, at leaſt, to throw ſome additional Light on thoſe diſputable Points.

In Anſwer to the Inſtance of the 10 of Hen. VI, cited in the Treatiſe above-mentioned, Mr. Cay argues as follows:

" There does appear," ſaith he, " upon the Parliament Roll of the 10 Hen. VI. " a Petition and Anſwer for the Purpoſe of the Payment of the Judges Wages, " which I ſuppoſe the learned Author would inſiſt was the Act of Parliament that " was refuſed to be confirmed. But it will be hard to draw any Inference of " Weight from hence: It is plain, that antiently Acts of Parliament had not the " Royal Aſſent compleat, till they had it under the Great Seal. The King's An-" ſwer in Parliament was a full Warrant to the Lord Chancellor, to draw it up " upon the Statute Roll, and put the Great Seal to it; but till that was done, it had " not (antiently) the Force of a Law to bind the People. Many Bills are entered " on the Parliament Roll, with the Anſwers to them, but with a Reſpectuatur alſo: " And I think none of theſe are reputed to have the Force of a Law. Diſſimulavimus " ſicut opportuit, & dictum pretenſum Statutum Sigillari permiſimus illa vice, are the " Words of King Ed. III. 15 Ed. III. Stat. 2. See alſo 4 Hen. IV. c. 13. and 25 " Hen. VIII. c. 20. § 2.; and Mayn. Ed. II. fol. 265. Now this Act of 10 Hen. " VI. Stat. 2. never was drawn up into a Statute, nor ſealed as ſuch, but has a " Reſpectuatur entered againſt it; ſo that if King Henry had continued in Poſ-" ſeſſion of the Crown, this Act would have ſtood in Need of a re-enacting Force, " even in his Reign, as well as in the Reign of Ed. IV." So far Mr. Cay.

Now ſhould we admit the general Doctrine here endeavoured to be eſtabliſhed, it would tend to invalidate the Force of ſome old Statutes, which have, by great Authorities, been deemed unqueſtionably binding. If we conſult the Parliament Rolls, whereon the Petitions of the Commons are entered with the King's Anſwers, we ſhall find, that, to Petitions of a public Nature, the King's Aſſent is entered in theſe Words, Le Roy le voet. By ſuch Anſwer, the Royal Aſſent was compleatly given, and the Bill acquired the Force of a Law, before it paſſed the Great Seal, and was entered on the Statute Roll. If the Diſtinction may be allowed, we might ſay that the Parliament Roll contained the Subſtance, and the Statute Roll, the Form of the Law. When entered on the latter, the Tenor of it, as hath been obſerved, was affixed to Proclamation Writs, which were directed to the ſeveral Sheriffs, commanding them to proclaim the Act as a Law in their reſpective Counties: But the Act, eſpecially if it did not require Novel Ley, as above explained, was in all Reſpects valid, before ſuch Entry and Proclamation; in the ſame Manner as an Act at this Day, after the Royal Aſſent given, is a compleat Law, before it is printed: For Printing comes in Lieu of the antient Promulgation by the Sheriff. And ſuch Method of Proclamation heretofore uſed, was, as Lord Chief Juſtice Holt * obſerves, but a mere Act of Grace. If an Offence, therefore, had been committed againſt an Act of Parliament, before Proclamation, the Offender had been at the King's Mercy, and he could not have pleaded Ignorance of the Law: For this manifeſt Reaſon—Becauſe all Perſons are bound to take notice of Acts of Parliament, they being ſuppoſed to be preſent at the enacting of them, either in Perſon, or by their Repreſentatives †.

The Point, however, concerning the Validity of an Act, extant on the Parliament Roll only, and not entered on the Statute Roll, was very amply diſcuſſed at the Trial of the Earl of Macclesfield‡. On that Occaſion, the 11 Hen. IV. which was entered on the Parliament Roll only, was produced, and ſtrongly inſiſted on by the Council againſt his Lordſhip, in their Reply. Serjeant Pengelly, in particular, maintained that the Parliament Roll was the Original, as being the Warrant for the Statute Roll, and therefore of greater Authority. In which Principle he was, in Subſtance, afterwards ſupported by Mr. Weſt.

After much Litigation on this Head, a Queſtion was propoſed by Mr. Onſlow, which decided the Matter in Controverſy. The Queſtion was, Whether the King's Aſſent was not entered on the Parliament Roll? To which Mr. Holmes, the Keeper of the Tower Records, and the Perſon then giving Evidence, anſwered,—That it was entered, in theſe Words,—" Le Roy le voet ;" which manifeſtly proved that the Royal Aſſent was compleat, and that the Act under Conſideration had the full Force of a Law.

Upon this Occaſion, the Point concerning the Reſpectuatur alſo came under Debate : For the Earl, among other Objections to the 11 Hen. IV. would have inferred its Invalidity, from the Circumſtance of its being entered with a Reſpectuatur per Dominum Principem & Concilium. But this Objection did not prevail, and it was inſiſted that the Reſpite given by theſe Words, did not deſtroy its Operation ‖.

Concerning the Authorities cited by Mr. Cay, it is to be obſerved, that with reſpect to the 25 of Hen. VIII. c. 20. though it is a Confirmation of the 23 Hen. VIII. concerning Reſtraints of Payments of Annates, &c. yet this Confirmation was made

† This Doctrine was maintained very early ; for in the Caſe of a Premunire 19 Ed. 3. upon the Statute of 27 Ed. 3. of Proviſions againſt the Biſhop of Chicheſter, Serjeant Cavendiſh, of Counſel with the Biſhop objected two Things : Firſt, that the Act, whereupon the Writ was grounded, was no Statute ; Secondly, that if it were a Statute, it was never publiſhed in the County. To whom Sir Robert Thorpe, Chief Juſtice, anſwered, Although Proclamation be not made in the County, every one is bound to take Notice of that which is done in Parliament ; for, as ſoon as the Parliament hath concluded any Thing, the Law intends that every Perſon hath Notice thereof ; for the Parliament repreſents the Body of the whole Realm, and therefore it is not requiſite that any Proclamation be made, ſeeing the Statute took Effect before. 3 Inſt. 26.

‡ See State Trials, Vol. 6.

‖ Lord Coke, who firſt printed this Act, gives us to underſtand that the Reſpectuatur in the Margin, was entered by the Prince——" A ſtrange Preſumption," ſays he, " without Warrant of the King his Father " and of the Parliament, to cauſe ſuch a Reſpectuatur to be made to an Act of Parliament."——His Lordſhip adds, that the Prince, " did the like to another Act in the ſame Parliament, concerning Attornies, " the like whereof was never done in any former or latter Parliaments." ☞ The Act which his Lordſhip here ſpeaks of, is the 11 H. 4. nu. 63. for reducing the Number of Attornies, &c. which was thought ſo grievous, that, in the thirteenth Year of the ſame Reign, they prayed that it might be modified in the preſent Parliament. See Rot. Parl. 13 H. 4. nu. 49. But if they had not conſidered it as a valid Act, notwithſtanding the Reſpectuatur, it would have been unneceſſary for them to have petitioned the King in Parliament, for a Modification of the Bill. Beſides if a Reſpectuatur, entered by we know not whom, had the Power of ſuſpending the Operation of a Law, which had ſolemnly received the Royal Aſſent, it would in Fact defeat the Purpoſe of the Legiſlature, and amount to a diſpenſing Power.—Biſhop Nicholſon likewiſe ſpeaks of the Entry of this Reſpectuatur, as one of the Prince's Frolicks. See Nicholſon's Hiſtorical Libraries.

in Purſuance of a Power ſpecially given by a Clauſe in the ſaid Act, of the 23d, enabling the King, within a limited Time, to declare by his Letters Patent, whether it ſhould take Effect as an Act, or not *.

As to the Words of Ed. III. Diſſimulavimus, &c. they ought to be buried in Oblivion; and in Truth it is manifeſt, from the foregoing Obſervations, that no concluſive Argument can be deduced from this Confeſſion, ſo inglorious to Majeſty.

Concerning the 4 of Hen. 4. c. 13. which confirmeth the 1, 18, and 25 of Ed. III. nothing can be inferred from thence, that thoſe Statutes had not the Force of a Law, before their Confirmation: For it is well known, that, according to the ſimple Policy of antient Times, when Laws were not duly obſerved, they could deviſe no better Expedient of enforcing them, than by re-enacting them with Clauſes of Confirmation. But ſuch Confirmations are no Evidence that the Acts, till then, had not the Force of a Law. The Great Charter hath been confirmed more than thirty Times, yet no one will infer from thence, that it was not a compleat Act in the firſt Inſtance. In Truth, the Confirmation of an Act did not add to its legal Efficacy, but, by bringing it more recently to Memory, under the Authority of the Legiſlature, was thought to make the Dread of Non-Obſervance the greater.

In the Year-Book of Mayn. Ed. II. it muſt be confeſſed that an Objection is there made to the Expoſitions of the Statute of Glouceſter, becauſe they were not under the Great Seal. But this appears to have been an Objection obiter, and nothing was determined on that Point. If any Determination, however, had been made, reſpecting its Invalidity, yet, it would not have ſufficient Weight to overthrow ſubſequent Authorities.

With regard, however, to the principal Queſtion ariſing on this Act of 10 H. VI. the Premiſſes on which the Author of the Treatiſe above named reſteth his Argument, do not warrant his Concluſions. The Denial of Confirmation, ſaith he, was equivalent to anulling or declaring it void. But this Inference by no Means follows. For an Act once valid, † can only be made void, by an expreſs Repeal: And a bare Refuſal of Confirmation, only leaves the Act in the State wherein it ſtood before.

* The Reaſon of giving this Power, was that the Operation of the Act might be ſuſpended, in order to afford Opportunity of inducing the Pope, by perſuaſive Means, to redreſs the Grievance of thoſe Exactions: And it appears by the Preamble to the Act of the 25, that the Pope had been actually made acquainted with the Contents of the former Act, and that gentle Means had beeen uſed to prevail on his Holineſs to reform the Abuſe complained of; which proving ineffectual, the King ratified the Act, in Purſuance of the ſpecial Power given to him by the Clauſe above recited. ☞ Note, The Act of the 23*d.* is not printed in any of the Statute Books, but will be inſerted in the Appendix to this Edition.

† It is obſervable that this Writer does not attempt to impeach the Validity of this Act on any other Principle, than the Defect, as he conceives it, of the Sovereign Title: And to this it may be objected, that the very Diſtinction itſelf of a King de Facto and de Jure, is nugatory; for every King in the actual Adminiſtration of Government, whoſe Authority is recognized by the other Branches of the Legiſlature, is a King de Jure. A parliamentary Settlement, doth unqueſtionably give as firm a Title to Sovereignty, as any hereditary Succeſſion whatever: And the ſlaviſh Arguments urged by the Advocates of hereditary Succeſſion, tend to preclude Men from their natural and unalienable Right of Reſiſtance againſt Tyranny and Oppreſſion.

HAVING thus endeavoured to obviate the Objections which have been made to the Validity of ſeveral Acts printed in former Collections, and continued in this, it may be proper to take Notice of a Complaint, frequently made concerning the vaſt Multiplicity of our Statute Laws, which has been deemed the Occaſion of ſuch Confuſion and Perplexity, that a Propoſal to reduce their Bulk, was long ſince recommended to the Parliament from the Throne itſelf †, at a Time when the Statute Laws of this Kingdom, were not an Eighth Part ſo voluminous as they are at preſent.

It hath been obſerved ‡, that in early Times former Laws were conſidered no longer in Force, than as they were preſerved in the laſt Publication; and by this Means, it is ſaid, the Laws were kept within narrower Bounds, until they were greatly enlarged, both in Number and artificial Conſtruction, by King Edward I. ‖.

This Method, it may be allowed, was well adapted to prevent the Statute Code from ſwelling to an inconvenient Size; but it may be worth while to conſider, whether, had this Practice been continued, it might not, in ſome Reſpects, have proved of Prejudice to Poſterity.

If, upon the Promulgation of a new Law, all former Laws thereby ſuperſeded, had been conſigned to Oblivion, how many curious and uſeful Pieces of Antiquity would have been loſt; and how many Lights to Juriſprudence would have been utterly extinguiſhed! If all the Laws which have been altered or repealed by ſubſequent Acts, or which, being grown old by the Introduction of new Habits and Cuſtoms, do not agree with the preſent State of the Times, were to be left out of our Statute Books, how greatly would Poſterity be at a Loſs to account for ſeveral Inſtitutions, which are only to be explained by Reference to thoſe venerable Relicts of Antiquity!

It may be a Queſtion therefore, whether an Attempt to contract the Bulk of our Statute Code by ſuch Expedients, might not prove an Innovation more dangerous than uſeful; there being many repealed and obſolete Acts, which though they do not govern, are yet very proper to guide; as they frequently contain Matter of † King James I. in one of his Speeches to Parliament, expreſſeth himſelf in the following Terms. "There be in the Common Law divers contrary Reports and Precedents; and this Corruption doth likewiſe concern the Statutes and Acts of Parliament, in reſpect that there are divers croſs and cuffing Statutes, and ſome ſo penned, as they may be taken in divers, yea, contrary Senſes: And therefore would I wiſh both thoſe Statutes and Reports, as well in the Parliament as Common Law, to be once maturely reviewed and reconciled, and that not only all Contrarieties ſhould be ſcraped out of our Books, but even that ſuch Penal Statutes as were made but for the Uſe of the Time (from Breach whereof no Man can be free) which do not now agree with the Condition of this our Time, ought likewiſe to be left out of our Books, which, under a tyrannous or avaritious King, could not be endured; and this Reformation might, methinks, be made a worthy Work, and well deſerves a Parliament to be ſat of Purpoſe for it." See Lord Coke's Remarks on this Speech, in his Pref. to 4 Report.— ☞ The ſame Propoſal was made in a Speech by Sir Francis Bacon, Lord Keeper in Queen Elizabeth's Time—And again, in an Addreſs to the long Parliament.

‡ See Mr. Cay's Preface,—and Mr. Serjeant Hawkins, upon the Statute of 44 H. 3. Vol. 7. fol. 622. Appendix, N°. 1.

‖ The narrow Bounds of the Statutes, in thoſe early Times, were not perhaps altogether owing to the Means here ſpoken of, but to the low State of Trade and Commerce, and the little Attention paid to the Rights of publick Liberty.

cutious Learning, and may often ſerve the Purpoſe of hiſtorical Proof and Illuſtration.

It is indeed to be lamented, that our Penal Laws are ſo numerous; but perhaps this is an Inconvenience unavoidably reſulting from the wide and extenſive Concerns of a commercial Kingdom. Though a State confined within a narrow Sphere of Action, may be very vicious, yet the Modes of Vice will not there be greatly diverſified: Offences will multiply, as the Purſuits and Occupations of Mankind grow more various and diffuſive: And in a Kingdom ſo jealous of its Liberty, as to leave as little as poſſible to diſcretionary Power, every Offence muſt be preciſely deſcribed; therefore it is well obſerved by Monteſquieu, that the Multiplicity of our Laws is a Price we pay for our Freedom *.

On this Occaſion, however, it may not be improper to obſerve, that our Statute Laws, with reſpect to criminal Offences, ſeem to breathe too much the Spirit of Draco's; all Degrees of Offence being confounded, and all Proportion of Puniſhment deſtroyed: Whence many Delinquents are, with cruel Precipitancy, hurried out of the World for ſlight Tranſgreſſions, who, by prudent and adequate Correction, might be made uſeful to themſelves and to Society.

Men bewildered in the Maze of Stoic Sophiſtry, may revolt againſt the obvious Principles of Nature, and contend for the Neceſſity of commutative Juſtice: But Reaſon evidently declares, that Puniſhments ſhould, as nearly as poſſible, bear Proportion to the Offences committed: And though this Rule cannot, in ſome Caſes, be ſtrictly adhered to, yet it ought, in general, to be the guiding Principle.

——————————Adſit
Regula, peccatis quæ pœnas irroget æquas:
Nec ſcutica dignum, horribili ſectere flagello.

Experience ſufficiently evinces, that extraordinary Severity has never produced any laſting Effect. It has indeed been ſometimes found to check the Evil for a Time, but then, as Monteſquieu obſerves, it has returned with the ſame Violence as before. To render the intended Effects permanent, the Laws ſhould be adapted to the Genius of the People, and the Nature of the Conſtitution: And it would be a Taſk well worthy the Wiſdom of the Legiſlature, ſo to model them that they may better anſwer the true Ends of Government, which are to prevent, rather than to puniſh Crimes †.

* They who exclaim againſt the Multiplicity of our Laws, are fond of quoting the Paſſage in Tacitus, where he ſays, Corruptiſſima Reſpublica, plurimæ Leges; but they ſhould conſider that the Hiſtorian does not throw this out as a general Reflection, but as applicable to the particular Circumſtances of Rome during the licentious Authority of the Tribunes; when, in Contravention to the Laws of the twelve Tables, particular and partial Laws were made by the Influence of private Men: The twelve Tables provided that no Laws ſhould be made by private Perſons, and that no capital Puniſhments ſhould be adjudged, but at the Comitia Centuriata. The frequent Revolutions however among the Romans, rendered theſe Proviſions ineffectual; for whenever the lawleſs Attempts of an ambitious Leader prevailed, the Uſurper inſtantly commenced Legiſlator: And conſequently in this corrupt State of the Commonwealth, the Laws, as Tacitus obſerveth, were very numerous. See Cicero pro Sextio—And Id. pro Domo ſua.

† Perhaps it might be ſhewn, that the preſent unequal Syſtem of our Criminal Laws, is not calculated even to anſwer the End of deterring Offenders: But this would open into a Field of Argument, too wide to find Place here, and may well demand a Treatiſe of itſelf.

Per-

Perhaps many other Amendments might likewiſe be made by legiſlative Authority: And many Irregularities in the Frame of our Statutes might be corrected without any Hazard of Inconvenience. Several Laws enlarged, explained, continued or revived by ſubſequent Statutes, might be reduced into one Act †: And where various Matters in no wiſe relative to each other, are comprized in the ſame Statute, they might be digeſted and claſſed under their proper Heads.

IN THE PRESENT EDITION, ſome Attempts have been made, which may, perhaps, in no ſmall Degree, obviate the abovementioned Inconveniencies, reſulting from the confuſed and irregular State of our Statute Law.

With a View to this End, great Care has been taken to correct the Errors, and ſupply the Defects in former Collections, by rectifying many miſtaken and imperfect References ‡, and by ſpecifying the Operation of the Acts referred to; that is, by diſtinguiſhing whether they repeal, enforce, explain, amend, continue, or revive the Act under Conſideration. Moreover, where the Statute referred to contains Matter relative to Subjects of different Natures, the Reader is directed to the very Section which regards the Object of his Inquiry: And for the Sake of greater Accuracy, particular Attention hath been paid to place the Act referred to, where it hath been found practicable, directly oppoſite to the Clauſe affected by the Reference. Many thouſand new References likewiſe are added in this Edition, which are brought down to the preſent Time, in a progreſſive Chain; and alſo traced upwards in Chronological Order, by which Means the Reader will have the Statute Law relative to the Subject of his Purſuit, under his immediate Inſpection ‖.

Such a connected View will obviate the Fatigue and Difficulty of tedious and intricate Searches. By this ready Method of comparing ſubſequent Statutes with thoſe preceding, the Reader may ſee how the Law ſtood at ſucceſſive Periods, may perceive wherein it was ineffectual, and, by attending to the progreſſive Alterations and Amendments which have been made, he will be more eaſily led to the true Meaning and Deſign of the Acts under his Conſideration.

It is to this End likewiſe that many Statutes, though obſolete or expired, are, in this Edition, inſerted at length, in their proper Order of Time, which are only abridged in the later Editions. Of this Kind are the 1ſt of Rich. III. c. 1. concerning Acts of Ceſtui que uſe; the 34 and 35 Hen. VIII. reſpecting Bankrupts; and alſo the 39 Eliz. c. 3. relative to the Poor Laws, with ſeveral others which ſeem to be of Uſe to give the Reader a connective Idea of the ſucceſſive Proviſions of Law on theſe material Heads. By having the Statute at large before him, he has the Benefit of the Preamble, which, as Lord Coke obſerves, is a good Guide to diſcover the Meaning of the Act, or rather a Key which opens to the Knowledge of it: and it is a Rule of Law, that the Preamble muſt be taken for Truth. The Preamble generally ſets forth the Miſchief intended to be remedied, and, by having the † See Preface to Wood's Inſtitutes.

‡ By imperfect References is to be underſtood, thoſe which refer the Reader to the Year of the King's Reign, and the Chapter, but do not ſpecify the particular Statute: And, as it ſometimes happens, that there are five or ſix Statutes in the ſame Year, the Omiſſion often occaſions great Perplexity and Trouble.

‖ Many additional References likewiſe will be made to the Report Books, &c.

Chain

Chain of Acts under his Eye, the Reader may perceive how the Remedy operated, and how it was counteracted, by which Means he will be better able to judge of the full End and Scope of the Legiſlature, with reſpect to the Subject of his Inquiry. It has been thought proper likewiſe to inſert at length, in its proper Order, the Act of the 13 Eliz. for making the River Lee navigable; as alſo the 12 Geo. II. for improving its Navigation, a great deal of Property being ſecured and governed by thoſe Acts.

In this Volume nevertheleſs, the Reader will obſerve, that, of ſome antient Statutes, which are printed at length in the laſt Edition, the preſent Editor hath inſerted the Titles only, referring to the Appendix or additional Volume, where the Statute will be given at large. As the Acts thus referred to, contain Matter moſtly of Curioſity, which can be of Service only to the learned Reſearchers into Antiquity, it was judged proper to reſerve them for the Appendix, in order to relieve thoſe who read ſolely with a View to Information in the practical Part of the Profeſſion, from the Incumbrance of antiquated Materials, totally uſeleſs with relation to their Purſuits. Such therefore may, either take or leave the additional Volume, as their Inclination ſhall direct them.

Concerning the Statutes in general which are repealed, obſolete, or expired, they will be carefully diſtinguiſhed by particular Marks; ſeveral obſolete Terms likewiſe will be explained: And as many repealed and obſolete * Acts, as hath been obſerved, contain Matter of curious Information, and frequently ſerve to explain and illuſtrate obſcure and difficult Paſſages in Hiſtory; therefore all ſuch as appear moſt uſeful in theſe Reſpects, will be printed in the Appendix; except they are in their Nature connected with ſome material Head of Inquiry, ſuch as the Act of Ceſtui que uſe, 1 R. III. c. 1. and others above mentioned, in which Caſe, they will be inſerted in their proper Order of Time.

With reſpect to the Turnpike Acts, the Plan purſued in former Editions will be followed in this. With regard to the Land-tax Acts, a different Method will be obſerved: For, in former Editions, even of the firſt Act of this Kind, the Title only is printed, though it governs the ſubſequent Acts, and though Aſſeſſments are made from it. But in the preſent Edition, the firſt Act will be given at large, and of the ſubſequent Statutes of the ſame Kind, Abſtracts only will be made; except where any Clauſe occurs, which varieth in Subſtance from the prior Acts: In which Caſe, ſuch Clauſe will be inſerted at length. The ſame Plan will be purſued with reſpect to the Malt-Tax, and other annual, Acts.

* The Words Repealed and Obſolete are often confounded, and indiſcriminately uſed. But an Act repealed, ſeems to imply a Statute which has loſt its Force, by virtue of a ſubſequent Act, which directly orders its Effect to ceaſe, over that Subject upon which it was made to operate, leaving the Subject itſelf ſtill in being: Whereas what is uſually, and perhaps improperly, called an obſolete Act, is that which loſes its Effect conſequentially, by the Annihilation of the Subject itſelf, on which alone its Power could opperate. Of this kind are all the Acts concerning feodal Tenures, they being rendered obſolete by 12 Car. 2. which aboliſh s the Tenures themſelves. The ſame may be ſaid of the Statutes concerning religious Houſes, in like Manner rendered obſolete by 31 Hen. 8. for the Diſſolution of Monaſteries, &c. In theſe Inſtances, the Statutes of Charles the Second, and Henry the Eighth, do not formally repeal the Feodal and Monaſtic Laws, but render them obſolete by diſtroying the Subjects themſelves, over which alone their Force could extend. Where the Subject is deſtroyed, the Adjunct drops of Courſe. It may be proper to obſerve, however, that though the Editor has retained the Word Obſolete, which has been uſed in all former Editions, yet he apprehends that it would be more accurate to ſay that theſe Laws were Superſeded; ſince no Law, in our Conſtitution, can be properly termed Obſolete.

With regard to the Order of Time in which the Acts are printed, the Editor hath adhered to the Plan of former Editions, though perhaps, in many Inſtances, the Years of the King's Reigns are not rightly ſtiled. The Statute de Conſpiratoribus, for Example, is printed not only in Serjeant Hawkins's and Mr. Cay's, but in all the old Editions *, as the 31 Ed. I. Nevertheleſs it hath been ſaid, by great Authorities, to have been made in the 21ſt †. Many Statutes likewiſe paſſed in a Seſſions which began one Year, and continued to another, are ſtiled Acts of both Years, which in Strictneſs perhaps ſhould have been ſtiled Acts of the firſt Year only. All Statutes refer to the firſt Day of the Seſſion, unleſs it is otherwiſe provided by the Act ‡. Upon this Principle, it hath been held by the Court, with reſpect to the 22 and 23 Car. II. c. 20. that the printed Statute is falſe, and that it was an Act of the 22d Car. II. For though the Seſſion extended into both Years, yet it commenced the 24th October, 22d Car. II. conſequently was an Act of that Year §. The Editor, however, has rather choſen to adhere to the Stile which has been ſo long in Uſe, that it may be deemed communis error, than take upon himſelf the Charge of rectifying ſuch Inaccuracies.

In a Collection of this Extent and Importance, an enlarged, perſpicuous and correct Table, is one of the moſt eſſential Requiſites; therefore the Editor propoſes to make a new Table or Index, alphabetically arranged. In this Table, which will be annexed to the End of the VIIIth Volume, many general Heads, omitted in former Editions, will be ſupplied: Many particular Articles likewiſe will be added, which are not taken Notice of, under the general Heads inſerted in prior Editions; and Endeavours will be uſed to arrange the whole with ſuch Order and Perſpicuity, that the Reader may be enabled to find all the Laws at one View, on whatever Subject he may have Occaſion to turn his Attention.

Here it may not be improper to take Notice, that many Statutes printed in former Editions, and continued in this, have been held, by Writers of great Name, not to be of Record. Of theſe, the Reader will find a long Liſt in Coke's 4 Inſt. c. 1. Lords Hale's Hiſt. of the Common Law, and the Table to Cotton's Abridgement. Moſt of them however have, by the Diligence of later Inquirers, been found to be upon Record.

With reſpect to thoſe mentioned by Lord Coke ‖, Prynne obſerves, that all of them,

* It is ſo printed in Berthelet's Edit. 1543—Likewiſe in Raſtall's Abr. 1583—Alſo in Pulton's Kalendar, 1617—And laſtly, in Raſtall's Statutes at Large, 1618.

§ It may not be improper to add that the Courts at Weſtminſter, are bound to take Notice of the Beginning of all Parliaments. But they take no Notice of Adjournments, though heretofore Adjournments and Prorogations were conſidered as the ſame Thing: And it was ſaid by Treby Chief Juſtice, in the Caſe of Birt and Rothwell, that the Word Prorogation was not found upon the Rolls, till the Time of Edward the Fourth (1). Their Effects however are, at this Day, eſſentially different. See Birt. qui tam verſ. Rotwell. 1 Lord Raym. 210 and 343.

excepting the firſt concerning the Judges Oath, though not to be found on the Parliament Rolls of the reſpective Kings, are yet to be ſeen at large on the Statute Rolls of theſe Years: And indeed they are all, except the Judges Oath, printed in Mr. Cay's Edition, Ex Rot. in Turr. Lond. Concerning the Judges Oath, Prynne remarks farther, that it was not printed in but before the Parliament: And from ſeveral ſubſequent Statutes, which take Notice of this Oath, he preſumes, not without Reaſon, that it was of Record, though not now to be found.

As to the Acts mentioned by Lord Hale, his Lordſhip ſaith, with his uſual Candour and Caution, that they are not of Record, that he knows of: And, from the Note underneath †, the Reader will perceive, that the learned Judge had good Reaſon to ſpeak with Diffidence. Nevertheleſs, as his Lordſhip and others have obſerved, it is no Impeachment of the Validity of an antient Statute, that it is not to be found upon Record: And it has been held, that nul tiel Record cannot be pleaded to the Allegation of any ſuch Statute: For an Act of Parliament made within Time of Memory, loſeth not its Force, becauſe not extant on Record: Since, of general Acts of Parliament, the Courts of Common Law are bound to take notice without pleading of them; and ſuch Acts ſhall never be put to be tried by the Record, upon an Iſſue of nul tiel Record, but they ſhall be tried by the Court, who are to uſe, for their Information, antient Copies, Tranſcripts, Books, Pleadings, and Memorials: For, if the Authority of a Publick Statute, could not be maintained without the Original Record, it would be in the Power of any one, who could deſtroy ſuch Record, in Effect to repeal the Statute itſelf. Therefore ſuch Defects are ſalved by traditional and univerſal Reception.

As there are ſome Statutes however in Print, which are not to be found upon Record, ſo there are ſeveral upon Record, which have never yet been printed. Lord Coke has enumerated many of this Kind ‡, but the Reader will meet with ſeveral in the Appendix to this Edition, not taken Notice of by his Lordſhip, or to the Editor's Knowledge, by any other Perſon whatever; of which ſome contain Matter of great Uſe, as well as Curioſity.

It now remains to ſay ſomething with regard to the Tranſlation. It has been obſerved by Mr. Serjeant Hawkins, that the old Tranſlation hath obtained a kind of preſcriptive Authority: And, he adds, that it is eaſy for the Reader to correct the Miſtakes in it, by the Help of the Original. But, with Deference to the Serjeant's Sentiment in this Reſpect, it muſt be obſerved, that the Tranſlation is intended for the Benefit of thoſe who are not qualified to reſort to the Original; therefore the Editor hath ventured to correct ſuch Miſtakes as were moſt obvious in the old Tranſlation, and hath endeavoured throughout to make it more conformable to the Original. In the early Statutes, the Errors of the Verſion are exceedingly numerous, more particularly in the Statute de Officio Coronatoris. In many others likewiſe, the Reader will perceive frequent, and very material Miſtakes. Nevertheleſs, as it might juſtly be deemed Preſumption to alter the old Tranſlation, which, by long Uſe, hath acquired a kind of preſcriptive Authority, it hath been judged proper to leave the Text, as it ſtands in former Editions, and to inſert the propoſed Amendment in the Margin, whereby the learned Reader will be able to determine for himſelf, and may either adopt or reject the Marginal Alteration, as his better Judgement ſhall direct him.

The Editor hath obſerved the ſame Method throughout; having every where left the Text, as it is printed in the laſt Edition, and inſerted in the Margin ſuch Alterations and Additions as he hath thought proper to make, which are diſtinguiſhed by an Italick Type. He rather choſe to adopt this Plan, that the Errors and Inaccuracies, which may have eſcaped from his Pen, may be more open to Detection. The Reader, therefore, is apprized, that, for every Word printed in Italicks, the preſent Editor ſtands accountable.

The Day of the Leap-Year, and the Day before, ſhall be holden for one Day.

Brac. 359.

"THE King unto his Juſtices of the Bench, greeting. Know ye, that where within our Realm of England, it was doubted of the Year and Day that were wont to be aſſigned unto ſick Perſons be impleaded, when and from what Day of the Year going before unto another Day of the Year following, the Year and Day in a Leap-Year ought to be taken and rekoned how long it was:

'II. We therefore, willing that a Conformity be obſerved in this behalf every where within our Realm, and to avoid all Danger from ſuch as be in Plea, have provided, and by the Councel of our faithful Subjects have ordained, That, to take away from henceforth all Doubt and Ambiguity, that might ariſe hereupon, the Day increaſing in the Leap-Year ſhall be accounted for one Year, ſo that becauſe of that Day none ſhall be prejudiced that is impleaded, but it ſhall be taken and reckoned of the ſame month wherein it groweth; and that Day, and the Day next going before, ſhall be accounted for one Day. And therefore we do command you, that from henceforth you do cauſe this to be publiſhed afore you, and be obſerved. Witneſs myſelf at Weſtminſter, &c.'

'of the Sheriffs are anſwerable ſhall be written in the 'annual Roll, and there ſhall be acquitted.

Tallies for Debts.

'III. Moreover, we will and provide, That it ſhall
'be proclaimed in every County, that all they that 'have Tallies of the Exchequer, for the Debts of
'themſelves or their Anceſtors, hitherto paid uſually
'there, and not yet allowed, which yet do come in the 'Summons of the Exchequer, they do deliver to the 'Sheriffs ſuch Tallies, to be allowed at the Exche'quer upon their Accompts. (z) And the Sheriffs
'ſhall make to them (of whom they ſhall ſo receive 'Tallies) their Writings, witneſſing the Receipt of
'thoſe Tallies, and Occaſion of the Debts.

Two Knights.

'IV. Two faithful Knights deputed thereunto, ſhall
'be preſent at the Receipt of the Tallies aforeſaid, be'tween whom and the ſaid Sheriffs Indentures ſhall be 'made of ſuch Receipts, with the Seals of them both
'interchangeably.

'V. The foreſaid Knights, deputed thereunto, ſhall
'ſend the Parts of their Indentures, at the Term ap'pointed, unto the Exchequer in Form aforeſaid, to
'the end, that by the View and Witneſs of them, the
'ſaid Tallies ſo received by the Sheriffs, may be ſhew-
'ed and allowed upon their Accompts.

Having Tallies, and not delivering them.

'VI. Moreover, it ſhall be proclaimed, That ex'cept thoſe that have ſuch Tallies to deliver them to
'the Sheriffs and Knights, as afore is ſaid, that then
'they ſhall be diſtrained for the whole Debt, and that
'the foreſaid Tallies ſhall be reputed for unpaid.

'VII. Moreover, the Debts which yet are to come 'in the Summons of the Exchequer, whereof the
'Debtors do proffer Tallies againſt divers Sheriffs,
'ſhall be defalked and acquitted.

Commiſſions to enquire of the King's Debts.

'VIII. Moreover we provide, That certain Perſons
'aſſigned thereunto on our Behalf, ſhall be ſent into 'every Shire, which ſhall have full Power to enquire
'of ſuch Manner of Debts; (z) and alſo to call afore
'them ſolemnly, as well the Sheriffs, as their Heirs
'and Aſſigns, and the Tenants of their Lands, in caſe
'they be dead that have received the Debts; (3) and
'alſo, if Need be, to proceed to the taking of ſuch
'manner of Inqueſts, whether the Parties (againſt 'whom the foreſaid Tallies were ſhewed) do come or
'not; ſo that the Sheriff do return a reaſonable Sum-
'mons made to them therefore; (5) and ſo the Truth
'being inquired and diſcuſſed in Preſence of the Par'ties (if they will be there) the Inquiſitors ſhall make
'Rolls of them that ſhall be convict afore them; ſo
'that the foreſaid Debts being confeſſed and inrolled,
'the Tallies of the ſame ſhall be forthwith broken.
'(5) And the Sheriffs ſhall have in their Cuſtody the 'Tranſcripts of the ſame Rolls, under the Seals of
'the Inquiſitors; (6) and ſhall ſurceaſe in making
'Diſtreſſes for the Debts contained in the ſame, until
'they ſhall have otherwiſe in Commandment from us
'therefore. (7) And the foreſaid Inquiſitors ſhall ſend
'unto the Exchequer the foreſaid Rolls under their
'Seals, that it may be examined there, by a Search to 'be made therefore, what Debts be paid in the Whole,
'and what are paid in Part, and what Debts there be,
'whereof the Debtors be not acquitted, according as
'ſhall be convenient to be done.

Tallies of Dividends.

'IX. Moreover, we will and provide, That the 'Chamberlains from henceforth ſhall not make to the 'Sheriffs, or any of their Bailliffs, Tallies of dividendis, unleſs they firſt receive of them Writings con'taining the particular Sums * of the Actions of Debts,

† Qu. And into what Parcels they would have ſuch Dividends diſtributed.

'and the Names of them that paid them, † unto the which Particulars he may part the Names of ſuch manner dividendis; (2) which being ſo received under their Seals, it ſhall not be lawful to number them into other Particulars.

The Sheriff returneth that the Debtor is not found, or hath nothing.

'X. Moreover, we provide, That all Debts, whereunto the Sheriffs make Return, that the Debtors have nothing in their Bailiwicks, ne had not at ſuch Time as they were charged with the ſame Debts, or that the Debtors be not found, that the ſame Debts ſhall be eſtreated in Rolls, and the ſame Rolls to be delivered unto faithful and circumſpect Men, which ſhall make Inquiry thereof after ſuch Form as ſhall be provided by the Treaſurer and Barons.

No Suit ſhall be proſecuted in the Exchequer, unleſs it concern the King, or his Officers there.

'XI. But for ſo much as certain Pleas were heretofore holden in the Exchequer, which did not concern us nor our Miniſters of the Exchequer, whereby as well our Pleas, as the Cauſes of our People, are unduly prorogued and letted; (2) we will and ordain, That no Plea ſhall be holden or pleaded in the Exchequer aforeſaid, unleſs it do ſpecially concern us and our Miniſters aforeſaid. (3) And therefore we command, That ye cauſe the Premiſſes to be diſtinctly and openly read afore you, and to inroll it, cauſing the ſame to be ſtraitly obſerved in our Court of Exchequer aforeſaid. In Witneſs of which, &c. Yeven at Rutland the four and twentieth Day of the Month of May, in the tenth Year of our Reign.'

data ad donatorem vel ad ejus heredem revertatur. In caſu etiam cum quis dat tenementum in liberum maritagium quod donum habet conditionem annexam licet non exprimatur in carta doni que talis eſt quod ſi vir & mulier ſine herede de ipſis procreato obierint tenementum ſic datum ad donatorem vel ad ejus heredem revertatur. In caſu etiam cum quis dat tenementum alicui & heredibus de corpore ſuo exeuntibus durum videbatur & adhuc videtur hujuſmodi donatoribus & heredibus donatorum quod voluntas ipſorum in donis ſuis expreſſa non fuerit prius nec adhuc eſt obſervata. In omnibus enim predictis caſibus poſt prolem ſuſcitatam & exeuntem ab ipſis quibus tenementum ſic fuit datum conditionaliter hucuſque habuerunt hujuſmodi feoffati poteſtatem alienandi tenementum ſic datum & exheredandi de tenemento exitum ipſorum contra voluntatem donatorum & formam de dono expreſſam. Et preterea cum deficiente exitu de hujuſmodi feoffatis tenementum ſic datum ad donatorem vel ad ejus heredem reverti debuit per formam in carta de dono expreſſam licet exitus ſi quis fuerit obiſſet per factum & feoffamentum ipſorum quibus tenementum ſic fuit datum ſub conditione excluſi fuerunt hucuſque de reverſione eorundem tenementorum quod manifeſte fuit contra formam doni ſui.

Propter quod dominus Rex perpendens quod neceſſarium & utile eſt in predictis caſibus apponere remedium ſtatuit quod voluntas donatoris ſecundum formam in carta doni ſui manifeſte expreſſam decetero obſervetur ita quod non habeant illi quibus tenementum ſic fuit datum ſub conditione poteſtatem alienandi tenementum ſic datum quo minus ad exitum illorum quibus tenementum ſic fuerit datum remaneat poſt eorum obitum vel ad donatorem vel ad ejus heredem ſi exitus deficiat per hoc quod nullus ſit exitus omnino vel ſi aliquis exitus fuerit per mortem deficiet herede hujuſmodi exitus deficiente. Nec habeat decetero ſecundus vir hujuſmodi mulieris aliquid in tenemento ſic dato per conditionem poſt mortem uxoris ejus per Legem Anglie nec exitus de ſecundo viro & muliere ſucceſſionem hereditariam ſet ſtatim poſt mortem viri & mulieris quibus tenementum ſic fuit datum poſt eorum obitum vel ad eorum exitum vel ad donatorem vel ad ejus heredem ut predictum eſt revertatur.

(5) 'And further, When the Iſſue of ſuch Feoffee is failing, the Land ſo given ought to return to the Giver, 'or his Heir, by Form of the Gift expreſſed in the 'Deed, though the Iſſue (if any were) had died: '(6) Yet by the Deed and Feoffment of them (to 'whom Land was ſo given upon Condition) the Donors have heretofore been barred of their Reverſion, '* which was directly repugnant to the Form of the 'Gift.

CAP. II.

A Recordare to remove a Plaint. Pledges to proſecute a Suit. Second Deliverance.

The Miſchiefs which Lords diſtraining their Tenants did ſuffer.

"FOraſmuch as Lords of Fees diſtraining their Tenants for Services and Cuſtoms due unto them, are many times grieved, becauſe their Tenants do replevy the Diſtreſs by Writ, or without Writ: (2) And when the Lords, at the Complaint of their Tenants, do come by Attachment into the County, or unto another Court, having Power to hold Pleas of Withernam, and do avow the taking good and lawful, by reaſon that the Tenants diſavow to hold ought, nor do claim to hold any thing of him which took the diſtreſs and avowed it, he that diſtrained is amerced, and the Tenants go quit; (3) to whom Puniſhment cannot be aſſigned for ſuch diſavowing by Record of the County, or of other Courts having no Record."

A Recordare to remove a Plaint out of the County. 26 H. 7. f. 1.

'II. It is provided and ordained from henceforth, 'That where ſuch Lords cannot obtain Juſtice in 'Counties and ſuch manner of Courts againſt their 'Tenants, as ſoon as they ſhall be attached at the 'Suit of their Tenants, a Writ ſhall be granted to 'them to remove the Plea before the Juſtices, afore 'whom, and none otherwhere, Juſtice may be miniſtred unto ſuch Lords; and the Cauſe ſhall be put 'in the Writ, * becauſe ſuch a Man diſtrained in his 'Fee for Services and Cuſtoms to him due. (3) Neither is this Act prejudicial to the Law commonly uſed, which did not permit that any Plea ſhould be moved before Juſtices at the Suit of the Defendant. (4) For though it appear at the Firſt Shew that the Tenant is Plaintiff, and the Lord Defendant, nevertheleſs, having reſpect to that, that the Lord hath diſtrained, and ſueth for Services and Cuſtoms being behind, he appeareth indeed to be rather Actor, or Plaintiff, than Defendant. (5) And to the intent the Juſtices may know upon what freſh Seiſin the Lords may avow the Diſtreſs reaſonable upon their Tenants; (6) from henceforth it is agreed and enacted, That a reaſonable Diſtreſs may be avowed upon the Seiſin of any Anceſtor or Predeceſſor ſince the Time that a Writ of Novel diſſeiſin hath run. (7) And becauſe it chanceth ſometime that the Tenant, after that he hath replevied his Beaſts, doth ſell or alien them, whereby return cannot be made unto the Lord that diſtrained, if it be adjudged:

It is provided, That Sheriffs or Bailiffs from henceforth ſhall not only receive of the Plaintiffs Pledges for the Purſuing of the Suit, before they make Deliverance of the Diſtreſs, but alſo for the Return of the Beaſts, if Return be awarded. (2) And if any take Pledges otherwiſe, he ſhall anſwer for the Price of the Beaſts, and the Lord that diſtraineth ſhall have his Recovery by Writ, that he ſhall reſtore unto him ſo many Beaſts or Cattle; (3) and if the Bailiff be not able to reſtore, his Su-

Where the Wife ſhall be endowable of Lands recovered againſt her Huſband. Where the Heir may avoid a Dower recovered. A Remedy for particular Tenants loſing by Default.

The Wife ſhall be endowable, though the Land be recovered againſt her Huſband by Covin, or by Default. 2 Inſt. 347. 14 H. 4. f. 31. 50 Ed. 3. f. 7. See 4 & 5 W. & M. c. 16. §. 5. Securing Dower to Widow of Mortgagor.

' IN caſe where the Huſband, being impleaded for ' Land, giveth up the Land demanded unto his Adverſary by Covin; after the Death of the Huſband, ' the Juſtices ſhall award the Wife her Dower, if it be ' demanded by Writ. To the intent that from henceforth ſuch ' Ambiguity ſhall be taken away, it is thus ordained ' in certain, That in both Caſes the Woman demanding her Dower ſhall be heard. Modus levandi Fines, Anno 18 EDW. I. Stat. 4. Anno Dom. 1290.

The Manner of levying of Fines: What Things be requiſite to make them good, and who are bound by them.

2 Inſt. 510. 5 Co. 39. The Order of levying of a Fine.

'WHEN the Writ original is delivered in Pre-'ſence of the Parties before Juſtices, a Plea-'der ſhall ſay this, Sir Juſtice, Conge, de ac-'corder; (2) and the Juſtice ſhall ſay to him, * What 'ſaith Sir R. and ſhall name one of the Parties. (3) 'Then, when they be agreed of the Sum of Money 'that muſt be given to the King, then the Juſtice ſhall 'ſay, Cry the Peace. (4) And after the Pleader ſhall 'ſay, In ſo much as Peace is licenſed thus unto you W. S. 'and A. his Wife, that here be, do acknowledge the Ma-'nor of B. with the Appurtenances contained in the Writ, 'to be the Right of our Lord the King, which he hath of 'their Gift, (5) to have and to hold to him and his Heirs, 'of the ſaid W. and A. and the Heirs of A. as in De-'means, Rents, Seigniories, Courts, Pleas, Purchaſes, 'Wards, Marriages, Reliefs, Eſcheats, Mills, Advow-'ſons of Churches, and all other Franchiſes and free Cu-'ſtoms to the ſaid Manor belonging, paying yearly to R. 'and his Heirs, as chief Lords of the Fee, the Services 'and Cuſtoms due for all Services. (6) And it is to be noted, That the Order of the Law will not ſuffer a final Accord to be levied in the King's Court without a Writ original, and that muſt be at the leaſt before Four Juſtices in the Bench, or in Eyre, and not † otherwiſe, and in Preſence of the Parties named in the Writ, which muſt be of full Age, of good Memory, and out of Priſon. (7) And if a Woman Covert be one of the Parties, then ſhe muſt be firſt examined by Four of the ſaid Juſtices; and if ſhe doth not aſſent thereunto, the Fine ſhall not be levied. (8) And the Cauſe wherefore ſuch Solemnity ought to be done in a Fine, is, becauſe a Fine is ſo high a Bar, of ſo great Force, and of ſo ſtrong Nature in itſelf, that it concludeth not only ſuch as be Parties and Privies thereto, and their Heirs, but all other People of the World, being of full Age, out of Priſon, of good Memory, and within the Four Seas, the Day of the Fine levied, (9) if they make not their Claim of their Action within a Year and a Day by the Country.'

A Statute of Waſte, made Anno 20 EDW. I. Stat. 2. and Anno Dom. 1292.

Tenant for Life committeth Waſte, he in the Reverſion brought an Action of Waſte, and dieth before Judgement, his Heir brought an Action for the ſame Waſte.

Not a Statute. Maynard Ed. 2. 231.

" WILLIAM BUTLER, which is within Age, and in Ward of our Lord the King, hath ſhewed unto his Highneſs, that where Gawin Butler his Brother (whoſe Heir he is) had impleaded one Walter de Hapeton by the King's Writ, for Waſte and Deſtruction made by him the ſaid Walter in certain his Lands and Tenements, which the ſame Walter held for Term of his Life, of the Inheritance of the foreſaid Gawin in Wimme and Thirke; and the foreſaid Gawin, before he had obtained Judgement, died, after whoſe Death the foreſaid William by like Writ impleaded the foreſaid Walter for the Waſte and Deſtruction made by him of long Time. The ſame Walter, before Gilbert Thornton and his Companions aſſigned to hear the King's Pleas, came in, and ſaid, that he ought not to anſwer to the ſame William for the Waſte and Deſtruction made in the Time of another, before the Right of the ſaid Inheritance deſcended unto him, and thereupon demanded Judgement. (2) And foraſmuch as certain Juſtices did not agree in giving of the ſaid Judgement, becauſe it ſeemed to ſome that it ſhould not be agreeable to the Law, that any Perſon ſhould obtain Advantage and Recompence by the foreſaid Writ, which is a Writ of Treſpaſs done to a Peſron certain, but only the ſame Perſon to whom and in whoſe Time the Treſpaſs was done; (3) other Juſtices, with the more Part of the King's Council, were in the contrary Opinion, alledging by divers Reaſons, that the ſaid William ought to be heard and anſwered unto, and all other whatſoever they be, in like Caſes or in like Treſpaſſes: And becauſe like Matters have remained not amended, and Treſpaſſes unpuniſhed, which was inconvenient:"

'II. Wherefore our Lord the King, in his full Parliament holden the Day after the Feaſt of the Purification, in the Twentieth Year of his Reign, by a general Council hath ordained, and from henceforth hath commanded to be ſtraitly obſerved, That every Heir (in whoſe ward ſoever he be, and as well within Age as of full Age) ſhall have his Recovery by a Writ of Waſte in the foreſaid Caſe, and alſo in other where the ſame Writ ought to hold Place; (2) and it ſhall hold Place as well for Waſte and Deſtruction made in Lands and Tenements of his own Inheritance, and as well in the Times of his Anceſtors, as at any other Time that the Fee and Inheritance deſcended unto him, and ſhall be anſwered unto therefore; (3) and that he ſhall recover the Tenements waſted, and Damages, as it is ordained in the Second Statute of Weſtminſter, of Damages to be recovered in a Writ of Waſte, if the Tenant be convict of Waſte. (4) And it is commanded by the King himſelf unto the ſame Gilbert Thornton and his Companions, that they do proceed in the foreſaid Matter, and in otherlike from henceforth, and Judgement ſhall be given according as the Matter is found. (5) And likewiſe it is commanded unto the Juſtices, that they ſhall cauſe all the foreſaid Things to be ſtraitly obſerved before them from henceforth.'

CAP. I.

A Confirmation of the Great Charter, and the Charter of the Foreſt.

2 Inſt. 537. A Confirmation of the Great Charter, and the Charter of the Foreſt.

'THAT is to ſay, That from henceforth the great Charter of the Liberties of England, granted to all the Commonalty of the Realm, and the Charter of the Foreſt, in like Manner granted, ſhall be obſerved, kept, and maintained in every Point, in as ample wiſe as the King hath granted, renewed, and confirmed them by his Charter. (2) And that the Charters be delivered to every Sheriff of England under the King's Seal, to be read four Times in the Year before the People in the full County, that is to wit, the next County-day after the Feaſt of Saint Michael, and the next County-day after Chriſtmas, and at the next County after Eaſter, and at the next County after the Feaſt of Saint John. (3) And for theſe two Charters to be firmly obſerved in every Point and Article (where before no Remedy was at the Common Law) there ſhall be choſen in every Shire-Court, by the Commonalty of the ſame Shire, three ſubſtantial Men, Knights, or other lawful, wiſe, and well-diſpoſed Perſons, which ſhall be Juſtices ſworn and aſſigned by the King's Letters Patents under the Great Seal, to hear and determine (without any other Writ, but only their Commiſſion) ſuch Plaints as ſhall be made upon all thoſe that commit or offend againſt any Point contained in the foreſaid Charters, in the Shires where they be aſſigned, as well within Franchiſes as without, and as well for the King's Officers out of their Places, as for other, and to hear the Plaints from Day to Day without any Delay, and to determine them, without allowing the Delays which be allowed by the Common Law. (4) And the ſame Knights ſhall have Power to puniſh all ſuch as ſhall be attainted of any Treſpaſs done contrary to any Point of the foreſaid Charters (where no Remedy was before by the Common Law) as before is ſaid, by Impriſonment, or by Ranſom, or by Amerciament, according to the Treſpaſs. (5) Nevertheleſs the King, nor none of thoſe that made this Ordinance, intend, that by virtue hereof any of the foreſaid Knights ſhall hold any Plea by the Power which ſhall be given them in ſuch Caſe, where there hath been Remedy provided in Times paſſed, after the Courſe of the Common Law by Writ, nor alſo that any Prejudice ſhould be done to the Common Law, nor to the Charters aforeſaid in any Point. (6) And the King willeth, That if all three be not preſent, or cannot at all Times attend to do their Office in Form aforeſaid, that two of them ſhall do it. (7) And it is ordained, That the King's Sheriffs and Bailiffs ſhall be attendant to do the Commandments of the foreſaid Juſtices, as far forth as appertaineth unto their Offices. (8) And beſides theſe Things granted upon the Articles of the Charters aforeſaid, the King of his ſpecial Grace, for Redreſs of the Grievances that his People hath ſuſtained by reaſon of his Wars, and for the Amendment of their Eſtate, and to the Intent that they may be the more ready to do him Service, and the more willing to aſſiſt and aid him in Time of Need, hath granted certain Articles, the which he ſuppoſeth ſhall not only be obſerved of his liege People, but alſo ſhall be as much profitable, or more, than the Articles heretofore granted.'

‘ THE King unto all to whom theſe, &c. Greeting. It is no new Thing, that among divers Eſtabliſhments of Laws, which we have ordained in our own Time upon the great and heinous Miſchiefs that happen in Writs of Novel diſſeiſin chiefly above other, we have deviſed more ſpeedy Remedy in thoſe Writs than was before. (2) And foraſmuch as it chanceth many Times in Aſſiſes of Novel diſſeiſin, that the Tenant doth except againſt the Plaintiff, that he holdeth the Tenements in Demand jointly with his Wife, not named in the Writ, and ſometime with a Stranger not named in the Writ, and ſheweth forth a Deed teſtifying the ſame, and demandeth Judgement of the Writ;” ‘ (3) it is agreed and ordained, That if the Plaintiff will offer to aver by Aſſiſe, that the Day of his Writ purchaſed, he that alledged the Exception was ſole Tenant, ſo that neither his Wife, nor any other had any Thing in the ſaid Lands, then the Juſtices, before whom the Aſſize is arraigned, ſhall retain the ſame Deed ſafely in their Keeping (until the Aſſize be tried between them thereupon) as that which is in a ſort denied. (4) And they ſhall let the Party abſent to underſtand by * their Writ under their Teſtimony, and alſo to the Jointenant that is preſent, of whom the Deed maketh mention, that he be preſent at a certain Day with the other Tenant, to anſwer unto the Party Plaintiff, as well upon the Exception alledged, as of the Lands demanded and put in View, if it ſeem expedient for him; (5) at which Day if both that are named Tenants do come in, and do juſtify the ſame Feoffment, they ſhall anſwer and maintain the Exception alledged by one of them, and further ſhall anſwer unto the Aſſize as though the original Writ had been purchaſed againſt both of them jointly. (6) And if it be proved by Aſſize, that the Exception was alledged maliciouſly, to delay the Plaintiff of his Right, ſo that they held not the ſame Land jointly the Day of the Writ purchaſed, then albeit the ſame Aſſize do paſs for the Tenants, and againſt the Plaintiff, yet they that alledge the Exception, ſhall be puniſhed by one Year's Impriſonment, whence they ſhall not be delivered without a grievous Fine. (7) And let the Juſtices be well adviſed, That from henceforth they do not allow an Exception alledged by the Bailiffs of any ſuch Tenants. (8) † And if he that alledgeth the Exception abſent himſelf at his Day, and the other that is named Jointenant do appear, although he that doth appear doth diſavow the ſame Deed, and ſay that he hath nothing in the foreſaid Tenements; nevertheleſs the Aſſiſe ſhall paſs againſt the Tenant that is abſent by his Default (9) And if it be found by Aſſiſe, that they were not jointly enfeoffed the Day of the Writ purchaſed, and likewiſe that the Tenant againſt whom the Writ was purchaſed, or another named in the Writ, did diſſeiſe the Plaintiff, then having regard to the Exception that was falſly and maliciouſly alledged to the Hurt of the Party, and to the Diſſeiſin that they made, the Party Plaintiff ſhall recover his Seiſin ‘ and

‘ and double Damages, and they that alledge the falſe ‘ Exception ſhall have the Puniſhment aforeſaid. (10) ‘ But if neither of the Tenants do come at the Day, ‘ then upon their Default the Aſſiſe ſhall paſs againſt ‘ them. (11) And if it be found thereby, that the ‘ ſame Exception was lawfully and truly alledged, and ‘ that they which alledged it were jointly ſeiſed before ‘ the Plaintiff purchaſed his Writ againſt them, the ‘ Aſſiſe ſhall paſs no further, but the Writ ſhall be ‘ abated. (12) The ſame ſhall be obſerved, if both or ‘ one only do appear, if it be found by Aſſiſe that the ‘ Exception aforeſaid was truly alledged, as before is ‘ ſaid. (13) In the ſame Order it is eſtabliſhed and ‘ agreed, That in Aſſiſes of Mortdaunceſter, and Juris utrum, at the firſt Day that the Parties appear in ‘ Court, if the Tenant alledge the foreſaid Exception ‘ againſt the Demandant, ſhewing a Deed thereupon, ‘ and the Demandant will offer to aver by the Aſſiſe or ‘ Jury, that at the Day of his Writ purchaſed, he that ‘ alledged the Exception was ſole Tenant, from thence ‘ the ſame Proceſs and Manner of Proceeding ſhall be ‘ uſed in Aſſiſes of Mortdaunceſtor and Writs of Juris utrum, as before is ordained in Aſſiſes of Novel diſſeiſin, and like Puniſhment ſhall be inflicted upon the ‘ Offenders and thoſe that be convict. (14) In other ‘ Writs whereby Tenements are demanded, ſuch Proceſs ſhall be made, that if at the firſt Day that the ‘ Parties appear in Court, the Tenant doth alledge the foreſaid Exception of a joint Feoffment, and the Demandant will offer to aver by the Country, that the ‘ Day of the Writ purchaſed, he that alledged the Exception was ſole Tenant, then the ſame Proceſs and ‘ Manner of Proceeding ſhall be obſerved betwixt the ‘ Parties until a Jury have paſſed between them thereupon. (15) And if it be found by the Jury, that the ‘ ſame Exception was truly alledged, then the Writ of ‘ the Demandant ſhall abate; (16) and if it be found‘ en by the Jury, that the ſame Exception was falſly ‘ alledged, and to the Hindrance of the Party, then ‘ the Demandant ſhall recover his Seiſin of the Tene‘ ments in Demand, and the Tenant ſhall be puniſhed ‘ by the Pain above limited in Aſſiſes of Novel diſſeiſin ‘ as to the Impriſonment, and as to the Damages, ac‘ cording to the Diſcretion of the Juſtices. (17) And ‘ we will and grant, That this Statute ſhall take his ‘ Effect the Morrow after the Feaſt of Saint Peter ad vincula next coming. (18) Foraſmuch alſo as Pleas ‘ in Court Spiritual heretofore had many Times unmeet Delays, for that our Writ that is called Indicavit was many Times brought before the Judges of ‘ ſuch Matters when they were begun, and thereupon ‘ our chief Juſtices could not proceed lawfully, nor in ‘ due Manner, to award a Writ of Conſultation upon ‘ ſuch Manner of Proceſs; (19) it is agreed, That ſuch ‘ a Writ of Indicavit ſhall not be granted from hence‘ forth to any before the Matter hanging in the Spiritual Court between the Parties be recorded, and that ‘ our Chancellor ſhall be certified thereof by the Sight ‘ and Inſpection of the Libel. (20) In Witneſs of ‘ which Thing we have cauſed theſe our Letters to be ‘ Patent, I myſelf being Witneſs at Weſtminſter. ‘ Given the ſeven and twentieth Day of the Month of ‘ May, the four and thirtieth Year of our Reign.’

Stat. Ne rector proſternat arbores in cemiterio, made Anno 35 EDW. I. Stat. 2. and Anno Dom. 1307 [a].

In what Caſes and by whom Trees may be felled in Church-yards.

QUONIAM inter rectores eccleſiarum et ſuos parochianos ſuper arboribus creſcentibus in cemiterio altercationes oriri ſepius intelleximus, utriſque ad ſe pertinere contendentibus: Hujuſmodi altercationis dubium declarare, juris ſacri potius quam ſtatuti juris eſtimamus. Nam cum cemiterium maxime dedicatum ſolum ſit eccleſie, et quicquid plantatur ſolo cedat; ſequitur neceſſario, arbores ipſas debere inter facultates eccleſiaſticas numerari, de quibus laicis nulla eſt attributa facultas diſponendi, ſed ſicut ſacra ſcriptura teſtatur ſolis ſacerdotibus diſpoſitio et cura indiſcuſſa a Deo commiſſa decet.

Verum cum arbores ipſe propter ventorum impetus, ne eccleſiis noceant, ſepe plantantur; prohibemus ne eccleſiarum rectores ipſas preſumant proſternere indiſtincte, niſi cum cancellus eccleſie neceſſaria indigeat refectione. Nec in alios uſus aliqualiter convertantur; preterquam ſi navis eccleſie indiguerit ſimiliter refectione, et rectores parochiarum indigentium eis caritative de arboribus ipſis duxerint largiendum: quod fieri non precipimus, ſed cum factum fuerit commendabimus.

" BECAUSE we do underſtand, that Controverſies do oft-times grow between Parſons of Churches and their Pariſhioners, touching Trees growing in the Church-yard, both of them pretending that they do belong unto themſelves, (2) * we have thought it good rather to decide this Controverſy by Writing than by Statute. (3) Foraſmuch as a Church-yard that is dedicated is the Soil of a Church, and whatſoever is planted belongeth to the Soil," ' it muſt needs follow, That thoſe Trees ' which be growing in the Church-yard are to be reckoned amongſt the Goods of the Church, the which ' Laymen have no Authority to diſpoſe, but, as the ' Holy Scripture doth teſtify, The Charge of them is ' committed only to prieſts to be diſpoſed of.' 1 Roll 255.

" II. And yet ſeeing thoſe Trees be often planted " to defend the force of the Wind from hurting of the " Church;" ' we do prohibit the Parſons of the ' Church, That they do not preſume to fell them down ' unadviſedly, but when the Chancel of the Church ' doth want neceſſary Reparations; (2) neither ſhall ' they be converted to any other Uſe, except the Body ' of the Church doth need like Repair: (3) In which ' Caſe the † Parſons of their Charity ſhall do well to ' relieve the Pariſhioners with beſtowing upon them ' the ſame trees; which we will not command to be ' done, but we will commend it when it is done.' 11 Co. 49.

Articles againſt the King's Prohibitions[a].

In what Caſes the King's Prohibition ſhall lie, and in what not.

'UNDER what Form ſhall Lay-men purchaſe Prohibitions generally upon Tithes, Oblations, Obventions, redeeming of Penances, Mortuaries, violent Hands laying on a Clerk or Lay-brother, and in Caſes of Defamation, in which Caſes Spiritual Penance muſt be enjoined? The King anſwered to theſe Articles, That in Tithes, Oblations, Obventions, and Mortuaries, when they be pleaded as before is ſaid, the King's Prohibition doth not lie.

'II. And if a Clerk or a Perſon Religious do ſell his Corn being in his Barn, or other where, to any Man for Money, if the Price thereof be demanded before a Spiritual Judge, the King's Prohibition doth lie; for by the Sale the Spiritual are become Temporal, and ſo Tithes paſs into Chattles.

'III. And if Debate hang in a Spiritual Court for the Right of Tithes, having his Original from the Right of the Patronage, and the Quantity of the ſame Tithes do paſs the fourth Part of the Value of the Benefice, a Prohibition ſhall lie.

'IV. Alſo if a Prelate enjoin Penance pecuniary to any Man for his Sin, if the Money be demanded before Prelates, a Prohibition ſhall lie.

'V. And if any lay violent Hands on a Clerk or Lay-brother, for the Peace broken Amends ſhall be made before the King, and for the Excommunication before a Biſhop or Prelate.

'VI. And if a corporal Penance be enjoined, which the Offender will redeem by giving Money to the Prelate, or to the Party grieved, a Prohibition ſhall not lie.

'VII. In Cauſes of Defamation, Prelates may freely correct, the King's Prohibition notwithſtanding, firſt enjoining a corporal Penance, which if the Party will redeem, the Prelate may lawfully receive the Money, though the Prohibition be ſhewed.'

"EDWARD by the Grace of God, &c. to the Sheriff of Lincoln, Greeting. Whereas at our Parliament ſummoned at Weſtminſter in the Quinzime of Eaſter laſt paſt, certain Articles expreſly contrary to the Laws and Cuſtoms of our Realm of England, and to our Prerogatives and Rights Royal, were pretended to be granted by us by the Manner of a Statute; (2) we, conſidering how that by the Bond of our Oath we be tied to the Obſervance and Defence of ſuch Laws, Cuſtoms, Rights, and Prerogatives, and providently willing to revoke ſuch Things to their own State, which be ſo improvidently done, upon Conference and Treatiſe thereupon had with the Earls, Barons, and other wiſe Men of our ſaid Realm, and becauſe we never conſented to the making of the ſaid Statute, but as then it behoved us, we diſſimuled in the Premiſſes by Proteſtations of Revocation of the ſaid Statute, if indeed it ſhould proceed, to eſchew the Dangers which by the denying of the ſame we feared to come, foraſmuch as the ſaid Parliament otherwiſe had been without diſpatching any Thing in Diſcord diſſolved, and ſo our earneſt Buſineſs had likely been ruinated (which God prohibit) and the ſaid pretenſed Statute we permitted then to be ſealed: (3) It ſeemed to the ſaid Earls, Barons, and other wiſe Men, that ſithence the ſaid Statute did not of our free Will proceed, the ſame be void, and ought not to have the Name nor Strength of a Statute;" 'and therefore by their Counſel and Aſſent we have decreed the ſaid Statute to be void, and the ſame in as much as it proceeded of * Dread, we have agreed to be adnulled; (4) willing nevertheleſs, That the Articles contained in the ſaid pretenſed Statute, which by other of our Statutes, or of our Progenitors Kings of England, have been approved, ſhall, according to the Form of the ſaid Statute in every Point, as convenient is, be obſerved. (5) And the ſame we do only to the Conſervation and Reintegration of the Rights of our Crown, as we be bound, and not that we ſhould in any wiſe grieve or oppreſs our Subjects, whom we deſire to rule by Lenity and Gentleneſs. And therefore we do command thee, That all theſe Things thou cauſe to be openly proclaimed in ſuch Places within thy Bailiwick where thou ſhalt ſee expedient.
